CONCENTRATION OF TROOPS

Ethiopian Protest To League

Geneva, Sept. 10.
The Ethiopian Government has addressed a fresh protest to the League of Nations against the Italian troop concentration in Eritrea and Somaliland.

The Note also reiterated the determination of the Ethiopian Government to do nothing to precipitate a crisis.

At the same time, at Addis Ababa,
the Italian Minister, Count Vinci, protested to the Ethiopian Foreign Office regarding the difficulties which he alleges are being placed in the way of Italian-protected subjects by the Ethiopian authorities when these subjects, in the interior of the country, were trying to complete the evacuation of their families and belongings.

The Italians desired to reach Addis Ababa, together with the personnel of the consulates, the protest said.

NO KNOWLEDGE

Count Vinci has hitherto received no reply from the Ethiopian Government to his request to be allowed to bring 180 soldiers to Addis Ababa to guard the Italian
Legation there.

The Italian Legation disclaims any knowledge of this reported offer by the Emperor of Ethiopia to allow Italy to build a road, or railway,
from Eritrea to Gondar, or to engage numerous advisers, including Italians, to be nominated by the League of Nations.

The Negus, meanwhile, has given his private residence at Harrar to the Red Cross unit which has just been started there.

ETHIOPIAN REFUSAL

Addis Ababa, Sept. 10.
The request of the Italian Minister to bring a company of Askaris for duty in Addis Ababa that they might protect the Italian Legation, has been refused by the Ethiopian Government; it was officially announced to-day.

THE NATION SHOCKED

By Huey Long's Death

New York, Sept. 10.

Horror and sorrow are expressed throughout the country at the assassination of Senator Huey P.
Long, the Louisiana political magnate. Deep-seated political differences are being sunk before the tragic spectacle of this death by violence.

Mr. Harold Ickes, Secretary of the Interior, one of the late Senator Long's most outspoken opponents, states that the Louisiana
"dictator's" death is regrettable
from every point of view.

He hoped, he said, that America had long ago passed the stage
when political issues were decided by assassination.

NO SUCCESSOR

General Hugh Johnson, former head of the N.R.A., the Postmaster-General, Mr. James A. Farley, and other foes of the late Senator, sent messages of sympathy to the relatives.

Meanwhile, Louisiana is in a political whirlpool, with Senator Long's great par-J-ship rudderless and his lieutenants constantly meeting in conference to find some way out of their dilemma.

It is recognised everywhere, however, that there is not one capable of replacing Senator Long, whose opponents are already clamouring
for the repeal of his dictatorial laws.

THE FUNERAL

Baton Rouge, Sept. 10.
Senator Huey Long's funeral will take place on Thursday at 10 p.m. G.M.T. He will probably be buried in the grounds of the State

THE ECONOMIC EXPERT

Interviews In Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 10.
Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, head of the British economic mission to China, and Sir Robert Clive, British Minister to Japan, had a two-hour interview with Mr. Hirota, Foreign Minister and Mr. Shigemitsu Vice-Minister of Foreign Affairs, to-day.

It is understood that they exchanged frank views and information with regard to Chinese currency problems.

Sir Frederick Leith-Ross pointed out that the British Government desired first-hand information on the many and diverse reports on these subjects, and he is reported to have stressed the point that he is not empowered to conduct any negotiations for economic assistance to China. The British Government, he said, desired to keep in close touch with the Japanese Government concerning economic rehabilitation.

READY TO HELP

Mr. Hirota is reported to have assured Sir Frederick that Japan is ready to do her utmost in cooperation with the British Government in connection with the proposed Chinese economic rehabilitation. If British approaches Japan with a concrete plan based on Sir
Frederick's coming survey.

The Japanese Emperor is granting an audience to Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, probably on Tuesday next, and Sir Frederick plans to leave Kobe for Shanghai on the following day.

LOAN OPPOSED

Nanking, Sept. 11.
As symptoms of Japanese resentment regarding "the new British economic move in China," the Japanese Consul here has protested to the Ministry of Industry against a loan of ten million dollars by British interests in Shanghai to assist the Chinese coal industry.

BETTER TRAIN SERVICES

Faster Times To Be Made

London, Sept. 10.
The railway winter time-tables,
which will come into operation at the end of the month, provide for speeding up of a number of important services.

The London North Eastern line is introducing the steam-lines express "Silver Jubilee," which will make the fastest long-distance run in Great Britain, being timed to cover 233 miles between London and Newcastle in four hours, with a halt at Darlington, giving an average speed of 70 m.p.h.

The London Midland and Scottish Company's "Night Scot" and several other night trains are cutting their times by from 10 to 15 minutes on the already fast schedules between London and the North.

In connection with its centenary celebrations, the Great Western has inaugurated a service, which began yesterday, between London and Bristol. The "Bristolian" leaves Paddington at 10 o'clock and is booked to pass Bath, 108.9 miles distant, in 91½ minutes, representing an average speed of 70 miles per hour, while on its journey back from Bristol it is allowed only 93½ minutes for the 111½ miles from Stoke Gifford to Paddington, which gives an average speed of 71.5 miles an hour.

Passengers who travelled in the "Bristolian" yesterday, when the run both ways was completed within the schedule, say the journey was smooth and comfortable.

LORD EDWARD MONTAGU

On Serious Charge

Lord Edward Montagu, twenty-nine-year-old son of the Duke of Manchester, was remanded on bail for a week at West London Police Court accused of the theft and forgery of a cheque.

It was alleged that he stole the cheque from Mrs. Violet Van der Elst, of Addison-road, W., who revealed in evidence that she had employed Lord Edward as a secretary for a while.

The cheque was said to have been made payable to Mrs. Van der Elst by David Cope, Ltd. turf accountants.

There were some heated exchanges during Mrs. Van der Elst's evidence.

Detective Sergeant O'Sullivan said that when he arrested Lord Edward at a London hotel Lord Edward replied: "I did not steal it. She gave it to me."

Told that the endorsement was a forgery Lord Edward said: "She signed the cheque. She signed about five at the same time."

Before he was charged at the police station, he said, "Well, to tell you the truth, Mrs. Van der Elst gave me that cheque to pay some summonses with. I have not paid them. I converted the money."

"ILL WITH SUNSTROKE"

The sergeant produced a photographic enlargement of the endorsement from which, he said, it was obvious to see that the signature had been inked over a carbon copy.

Mr. J. H. McDonnell (for Lord Edward): He has all the time maintained that this was Mrs. Van der Elst's writing and has never moved from that point?—That is true.

Mrs. Van der Elst stated that the cheque produced in court was left by her in a desk drawer at her home, and she never signed it.

She said that several people had access to the office. She engaged Lord Edward as a secretary and he was working for her between June and July.

The clerk: When did you first find that the cheque was missing?—It must have been about three weeks after Lord Edward left. He was ill with sunstroke.

Mrs. Van der Elst said that Lord Edward's duties were to find out the accounts she owed and to make out the cheques, which she signed.

Cross-examined by Mr. McDonnell, Mrs. Van der Elst said that when she endorsed a cheque it was banked straight away.

"ALWAYS WANTED MONEY"

Mr. McDonnell: Did you ever promise to give Lord Edward £20 when he asked for accommodation?—He always wanted money. I may have talked about it. I know he wanted £20. I don't always promise, but people may take it for granted that I will let them have it.

Mr. McDonnell: I put it to you that you promised to let Lord Edward have £20, that you endorsed this cheque in his presence that you handed it to him, and that you had forgotten it at the time that you went to the police?

Mrs. Van der Elst: You say that. I admit to the £20 if it pleases you, but please do not let me plead guilty to softening of the brain.

Mr. McDonnell: When Lord Edward was arrested you did not even want to sign the charge, did you?—No. I am a kind woman. I am a humanitarian. Try and think I am some one different.

Have you accused numerous people of theft?—Only when I have had a reason.

"LIES AND SCANDAL"

Mr. McDonnell: Did you have to resign from the Lyceum Club because you accused somebody there of theft?

Mrs. Van der Elst: Why, you must be mad. Me resign from any club! Never!

Mr. McDonnell replied: "Yes" when the magistrate asked if these questions were being put to show that Mrs. Van der Elst was not to be believed.

"Why bring up lies and scandal?" Interposed Mrs. Van der Elst.

Mr. McDonnell: Did you ring up the police some little while ago and tell them that your late secretary had stolen £200,000 worth of jewellery of yours?

Mrs. Van der Elst turned angrily in the witness-box and said: "There are police officers here to tell you if I did."

The hearing was then adjourned.

NEW ARMY UNITS

Anti-Aircraft Defence

Special Air Mail Service

London, Aug. 25.

An Army Order (139) issued last night announces that the King has approved of the absorption, at Malaya, of the 7th Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Artillery, by the 7th Heavy Battery, Royal Artillery, with effect from November 22, 1935. The King has also approved of the formation of the following new units:

(1) Headquarters, 4th Anti-Aircraft Brigade, Royal Artillery, at Malta, with effect from November 16—the brigade to consist of the existing 10th and 13th Anti-Aircraft Batteries, Royal Artillery.

(2) 23rd Heavy Battery, Royal Artillery, at Malta, with effect from November 18, to be brigaded in the existing 4th Heavy Brigade, Royal Artillery.

(3) Headquarters, 5th Anti-Aircraft Brigade, Royal Artillery, at Hong Kong, with effect from November 23.

(4) 7th Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Artillery, at Hong Kong, with effect from November 23, to be brigaded with the existing 9th Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Artillery, in the 5th Anti-Aircraft Brigade, Royal Artillery.

(5) 6th (Singapore) Anti-Aircraft Battery, Hong Kong—Singapore Royal Artillery, at Malaya, with effect from November 23, to be brigaded with the existing 11th Anti-Aircraft Battery, Royal Artillery, in the 3rd Anti-Aircraft Brigade Royal Artillery.

An explanatory note states that the formation of these new units is necessitated by increases in establishments at the various ports, and other changes notified in the Order are due to consequential reorganization.

The intention to increase the establishments at certain defended ports abroad was mentioned in the Memorandum of the Secretary of State for War relating to Army Estimates, 1935. (Cmd. 4814). It was explained that the coast defence garrisons of these ports had been examined with a view to bringing their establishments into line with modern conditions, and that a considerable proportion of the increases in the establishment of the Army this year was due to the progressive development of the anti-aircraft defences at these ports.

JEALOUSY

The Twisted Instinct

Jealousy, the twisted instinct which led Wilfred Gibbs to murder his young wife and two other people in an omnibus at the Oxfordshire village of Shutford, was discussed with the writer by a well-known medical authority.

"Not one of us," he declared, "is immune. Given sufficient provocation, each of us is capable of committing a crime similar to that of Gibbs."

"Gibbs was jealous of his young and attractive wife. One of humanity's oldest instincts held him in its grip. It took control of his brain."

TEMPORARY MANIA

"At the moment that he fired the shots he was almost certainly suffering from a definite form of madness."

"Jealousy arises when some person or thing which we prize, ceases to be our own personal property."

"It is the possessive instinct gone wrong."

"Many people subconsciously imagine themselves to be kings of all they survey."

"They become jealous, and may become dangerous, when this belief is suddenly broken down."

"How strong our instincts are may be seen when a jealous child threatens to kill its playmate."

"No parent would take such a threat seriously, but it is a fact that the child probably means what it says, at the moment it says it."

"Jealousy is a temporary mania. A person maddened by jealousy will often have dilated pupils, rapid heart-beats and high blood-pressure."

"Gibbs probably foamed at the mouth in his intense mental excitement, as he shot his victims."

KEPT IN A CASTLE

Stepdaughter Of Ex-Kaiser

Beautiful, betrothed, twenty-five-year-old "Princess Carmo," stepdaughter of the ex-Kaiser, is being kept away from her lover in Castle Sabor, in Silesia, while her mother, the Princess Hermine, decides whether or not she can marry the man she loves.

The Princess—her real name is Princess Hermine, Caroline—fell in love last year with young Herr George Martin Wunderlich, her mother's secretary.

Her mother approved of the match, and the engaged couple spent happy days at Doorn, the ex-Kaiser's Dutch home.

Suddenly, however, Princess Hermine, the ex-Kaiser's wife, changed her mind and ordered her daughter to break off the engagement.

ANOTHER CONFERENCE

"Princess Carmo," forbidden to see any more of the man she loved, retaliated by escaping from Doorn and taking a room in a small boarding house in Berlin.

Her mother followed her, and from her headquarters in the old Imperial Palace in the Unter den Linden ordered her daughter to return to her.

The Princess obeyed. For a time she lived with her mother in the palace and spent her days in long solitary walks through the Berlin parks, accompanied by her black Scotch terrier.

Then her mother took her away to Castle Sabor. She has not, however, lost all hope. Herr Wunderlich, no longer secretary to the Empress, is trying to find another position to enable him to support a wife.

This month there is to be a conference at Castle Sabor, where the parted lovers will try to win back permission to marry.

TWO FATHERS

In A Shooting Enquiry

"We find that Wilfred Gibbs willfully murdered his wife, his sister-in-law and Joseph Messenger, then he committed fe-o-de-se."

Eight village jurymen, after a six-hour inquest, returned that verdict on the deaths of the two men and two women who died in the shooting tragedy at Shutford, Oxfordshire.

They had heard how Wilfred Gibbs, a blacksmith, driven by jealousy, had lain in wait for an omnibus, how he had fired his father's rifle, had fatally shot his wife, her sister and a man passenger.

A policeman, giving evidence, said the wife spoke to him as she died. This was the conversation:

How did you receive your injuries?—I was shot.

Who did it?—My husband, I expect.

Did you see him?—No. Has he threatened to take your life?—Yes.

Another policeman told how he had found Gibbs dead in the cowshed he had used as a marksmen's hiding place. He had searched the dead man's pockets; found there the photographs of the blacksmith's wife and child.

SHOOK HIS FIST

Two fathers faced each other in the harness room of Shutford Manor, which had become a coroner's courthouse.

Mr. Gibbs, father of the dead husband, said the gun that fired the fatal shots was his. He had kept it hidden away.

Mr. Goode, a railway carriage cleaner, father of the two shot women, angrily denied that statement.

He shook his fist at the other bereaved father and cried: "My daughter knew the gun was in the house. It is a pack of lies to say it was hidden away."

Beyond Even Him

The old horse trader used to swear a nag was safe for a woman to drive, whether it was or not, but no auto salesman has the nerve to swear his car is safe for a fool to drive.

"SANATOGEN will soon put him right again"

Physicians know by experience, how quickly and surely Sanatogen will build up strength in debilitated patients.

Whatever the cause of the weakness, be it illness, overwork or worry, Sanatogen cannot fail to do good. The phosphorus it contains is pure strength to the weakened nerve-cells. The albumin is nature's own building material of bodily power. It is the intricate combination of these two elements that has won Sanatogen the written recommendations of over 25,000 physicians.

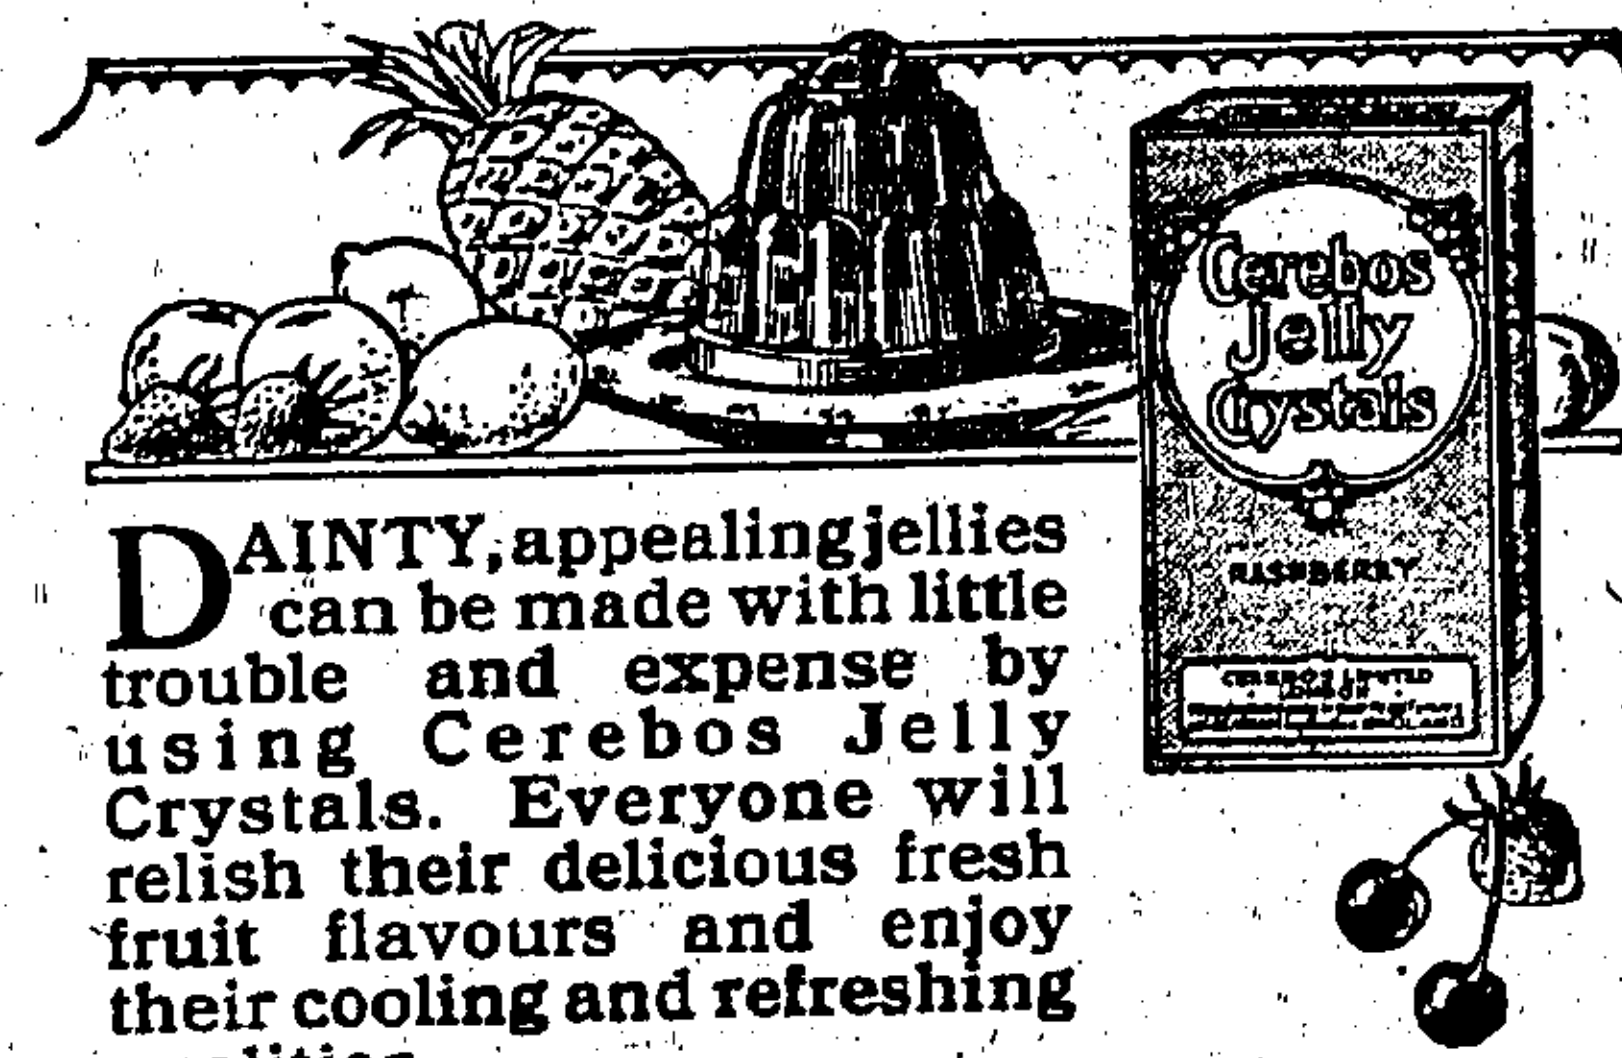

And the splendid part of it is that Sanatogen is not only a true tonic-food, but also very easily digestible, so that the weakest patient, and the weakest stomach, can digest it.

Sanatogen must do you good. It does not interfere with any medical treatment, and every glassful brings you nearer to perfect health again. Shorten that tedious period of convalescence. Be strong and healthy again. You can if you start your course of Sanatogen today.

"The Remedy You Breathe"

STAPLES SURPRISES!

THE MILKY WAY

DEVONSHIRE JUNKET

- 1 quart of milk.
- 2 heaped tablespoonsful of castor sugar.

Rennet and flavouring.

The milk is put in a basin with the sugar and flavouring; then the basin is placed over a saucepan of hot water, or on the side of the range until it reaches blood heat, when it is removed from the stove.

The flavourings vary: they may be of almond or vanilla, or coffee essence, or a little good chocolate may be melted and added to make a chocolate junket.

Junket has a great advantage over many milk dishes inasmuch as it requires very little preparation and no cooking. It appeals to unsat people for that reason. Just as all breakfast cereals do. They make no demand for labour or time, and yet are some of the finest bases for milk foods.

As variations may be made in junkets, so the milk for drinking is varied with a dash of coffee essence or strong tea, chocolate, or even a vanilla pod.

TENNIS CUSTARD

For this, take:

- 3 tablespoonsful of milk,
- 4 eggs.
- 3 teaspoonsful of castor sugar.

A few drops of almond flavouring.

Separate the whites of the eggs from the yolks, and beat them to a stiff froth. Bring the milk to the boil, then add the whites of eggs, a tablespoonful at a time, to the boiling milk. If whipped to the right degree, the egg whites should set in balls in less than a minute. As soon as they are set, remove them from the milk with a perforated spoon and put in a fancy dish.

The custard is made with the egg yolks, milk, sugar, and flavouring, and, when thick, it covers the white balls in the dish.

SUMMER SAVOURY

- 1 pint of milk.
- 1 pound of cooked veal, chopped small.
- 2 tablespoonsful of flour.
- 1 tablespoonful of butter.
- 1 breakfastcupful of fine breadcrumbs.
- 1 egg-yolk.
- 1 small onion, finely chopped.
- 1 teaspoonful of parsley.
- Salt and pepper.

Make a sauce with the milk, butter, and flour. Cook for 5 minutes. Add the breadcrumbs, onion, and parsley and season with pepper and salt. Stir carefully and keep very hot. Stir in the yolk of egg, then the meat. Pour the completed mixture into a buttered fireproof dish and bake for half an hour.

FRUIT

Aid To Beauty

In these enlightened days we hear much about the medicinal benefits of fruit consumption. Details about fruit therapy are not, however, easy to find. Here are some gleanings.

Fruit is the enemy of poisons. It purifies the blood by attacking directly the poisonous matter in the system, and so produces beneficial effects on the skin. Fresh fruit is essential for good health.

TOMATOES

Tomatoes—it is still an undecided question whether they are fruit or vegetable—are excellent for the liver and internal economy. The ideal is to take one pound once a day as a meal, without any accompaniment.

Gooseberries are believed to contain sulphur and consequently remove impurities through the skin and so beautify it. Raspberries, blackberries and loganberries are all alkalisers; they rid the blood of toxins owing to the acid they contain.

The apple was considered by the early Scandinavians as the food of the gods, who when they felt themselves growing feeble consumed this fruit to renew power of mind and body. To-day the apple is recognised as Nature's tooth-brush and a great aid to digestion.

The citrus fruits, that is oranges, grape-fruits and lemons, are the greatest blood purifiers. The lemon is also famed as a liver stimulant. The sailor's godsend, it is a preventative of scurvy, which arises from the absence of fruit and green vegetables in the diet. To be most efficacious the juice of one lemon should be taken in cold water on rising. Oranges are best specifics against influenza.

HOLLYWOOD'S CHOICE

What better digestive is there than pineapple? Probably that is the reason why Hollywood utilises it in its slimming cures. Obesity is often the result of imperfect assimilation.

Grapes and their juice are a food medicine. Grapes are used in febrile conditions and are a great restorative in weakness and debility since they have tissue-building and tissue-repairing properties. Grape juice will fill out hollows, for it feeds blood, body and nerve cells. A glass of this juice taken on retiring will prevent insomnia and assist refreshing sleep.

For the best results fruit must be eaten ripe. Unripe or over-ripe fruit is apt to produce intestinal pain. All fruits contain certain acids and salts. By various chemical processes in the body these become changed and keep the conditions of the body normally and healthily alkaline, so as to resist disease.

AN AUGUST LUNCHEON

Scramble your eggs in your very best manner, and as you mix them beforehand, stir in some very thin strips of "raw" sorrel. A most delicious flavour is the result, which can be achieved in the same manner in an omelette.

Cut the escalopes very thin, and beat them thinner still (for veal must be included in those things which improve by beating); season them, fry them, butter until golden and done.

Then take them out and keep them warm while you make a lovely coffee-coloured sauce by stirring cream into the pan in which they were cooked.

Flavour this with a small squeeze of lemon juice, and at the last minute add to it a cucumber which you have cut into small pieces and stewed. Pour this all over the escalopes, and eat quickly.

The amusing soufflé, a hot one, is made with half vanilla and half chocolate, two layers, one on top of the other, and baked together. Delicious, too.

COLD SAUCES

Orange Sauce

Mix six tablespoonsful of red-currant jelly, three of sugar, and the grated rind of two oranges, and beat them together for five minutes. Then stir in two tablespoonsful each of lemon and orange juice, a good pinch of salt and a small pinch of cayenne pepper. If you like, add a couple of tablespoonsful of port.

SPANISH SAUCE

Cock three-quarters of a pint of tomato pulp for fifteen minutes with a spring onion, half a dozen cloves, a small pinch of cayenne pepper, a third of a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika, a sprig of parsley, and a piece of a bayleaf.

Then rub through a sieve and mix with three egg-yolks which have previously been lightly beaten and mixed with three tablespoonsful of olive oil. Cook in a double saucepan together, and then add a tablespoonful of gelatine which has been dissolved in three-quarters of a tablespoonful each of tarragon vinegar and cold water. Strain.

AMERICAN VINAIGRETTE SAUCE

Mix together a teaspoonful of salt, a quarter of a teaspoonful of paprika, a pinch of pepper, a tablespoonful of tarragon vinegar, six tablespoonsful of olive oil, a tablespoonful each of chopped green pepper and pickle cucumber, and a teaspoonful each of finely chopped parsley and chives.

CUCUMBER SAUCE

The simplest is to pare, grate, and drain well a couple of cucumbers and to mix them with vinegar, seasoning with salt.

A more elaborate way is to beat a gill of cream till thick, continue beating while you add two tablespoonsful of vinegar by degrees, season with salt and pepper, and finally stir in carefully a pared, chopped, and well-drained cucumber.

MINT CURRANT JELLY

Half melt a cupful of red-currant jelly, add a teaspoonful of very finely chopped fresh mint and a little grated orange peel. Stir in cold water until the jelly begins to set.

CHOCOLATE MACAROONS

Mix half pound of ground almonds and half a pound of castor sugar, warm four ounces of chocolate until it runs into a paste, and add it to the almonds and sugar, mixing all together well. Whisk the whites of three large eggs (four if small) to a stiff froth and fold lightly into the mixture. Form into little cakes and place on waterpaper or a greased baking-tin. Bake for ten minutes in a moderate oven.

FOR DINNER TO-NIGHT

Omelette Clamart.
Crab à l'Indienne.
Poulet de grains Bergère.
Bombe Prophète.

The omelette is stuffed with green peas, cooked a l'anglaise or a la française as you prefer. Serve the crab meat mixed with a lightish curry sauce in little coquilles, browned quickly before serving.

The spring chicken is cooked in a cocotte with butter, and is served in it garnished with fried pieces of mushrooms and with fried fardons of blanched pickled pork.

The ice pudding is clothed with strawberry ice, the inside being pineapple.

A PARTY CAKE

A simple party cake is made thus: Measure three teaspoonful of self-raising flour, one of granulated sugar, one of currants, one of sultanas, one of seedless raisins, and one of chopped candied peel. Wash and dry the fruit. Put the sugar into a basin with a quarted of a pound of butter, and cream them together. Add the flour and fruit, and mix well. Beat two eggs and add them, with as much milk as necessary to make a very stiff paste. If the dough is soft, it will be heavy and the fruit will sink to the bottom while cooking.

Line a cake tin with grease-proof paper, put in the mixture, and spread it out evenly with the wooden spoon. Put into a hot oven and bake for about an hour and a half, or until cooked. Test by putting the blade of a knife through it. If the blade comes out clean the cake is done; if sticky, it needs more cooking. When done, take the cake from the tin, remove the paper, and allow to get quite cold before icing.

TO ICE THE CAKE

Roll out three quarters of a pound of icing sugar, put it into a basin and mix with the juice of one lemon. Have ready some boiling water and add a little at a time, mixing all the time with a wooden spoon, till the icing is smooth enough to spread easily, but does not run. Spread it rather roughly on the cake with a knife, so that it looks like snow, covering top and sides.

ALMOND PUDDING

Sift six ounces of self-raising flour into a bowl; rub in finely three ounces of butter, then add a pinch of salt and a level tablespoonful of castor sugar. Make into a stiff dough with the yolk of an egg and a little milk; the paste should not be sticky. Roll out lightly to fit a shallow pie-dish and prick the pastry all over. Cover it thinly with apricot or raspberry jam. In a small saucepan put six ounces of ground almonds, the whites of two eggs, and three ounces of blanched almonds cut into thin strips, and stir over a low heat until the sugar has melted and looks syrupy. Add half a teaspoonful of almond essence. Pour this mixture over the pastry and bake in a moderate

Saddle Of Lamb

A small saddle of Lamb is not too overpoweringly meaty for warm weather. With the aid of a few mushrooms, it can be transformed into a rather special dish.

Cook the saddle in the oven until it is very nearly done, in a large stewpan with the lid on, with half a dozen medium-sized onions, a bouquet of parsley, thyme and bayleaf, two or three sliced carrots and a little butter.

While it is cooking make a fine puree of six ounces of mushrooms, and make this into a fairly stiff puree with the sieved onions which have cooked with the lamb.

When the saddle is nearly done, take it out of the pan and carve it in thin, long slices down the chine, and then arrange the slices back on the bone, putting between them a little of the onion and mushroom puree.

Tie the joint round carefully with string, and sprinkle it well with a mixture of finely grated Parmesan and state breadcrumbs, add a little more salt and pepper, and let it get just golden in the oven.

Two pounds of lettuce, four small young onions, a bouquet of one sprig of parsley, two ounces of butter and two lumps of sugar.

Cut the lettuce leaves across in strips about a finger thick. Divide the butter into small pieces.

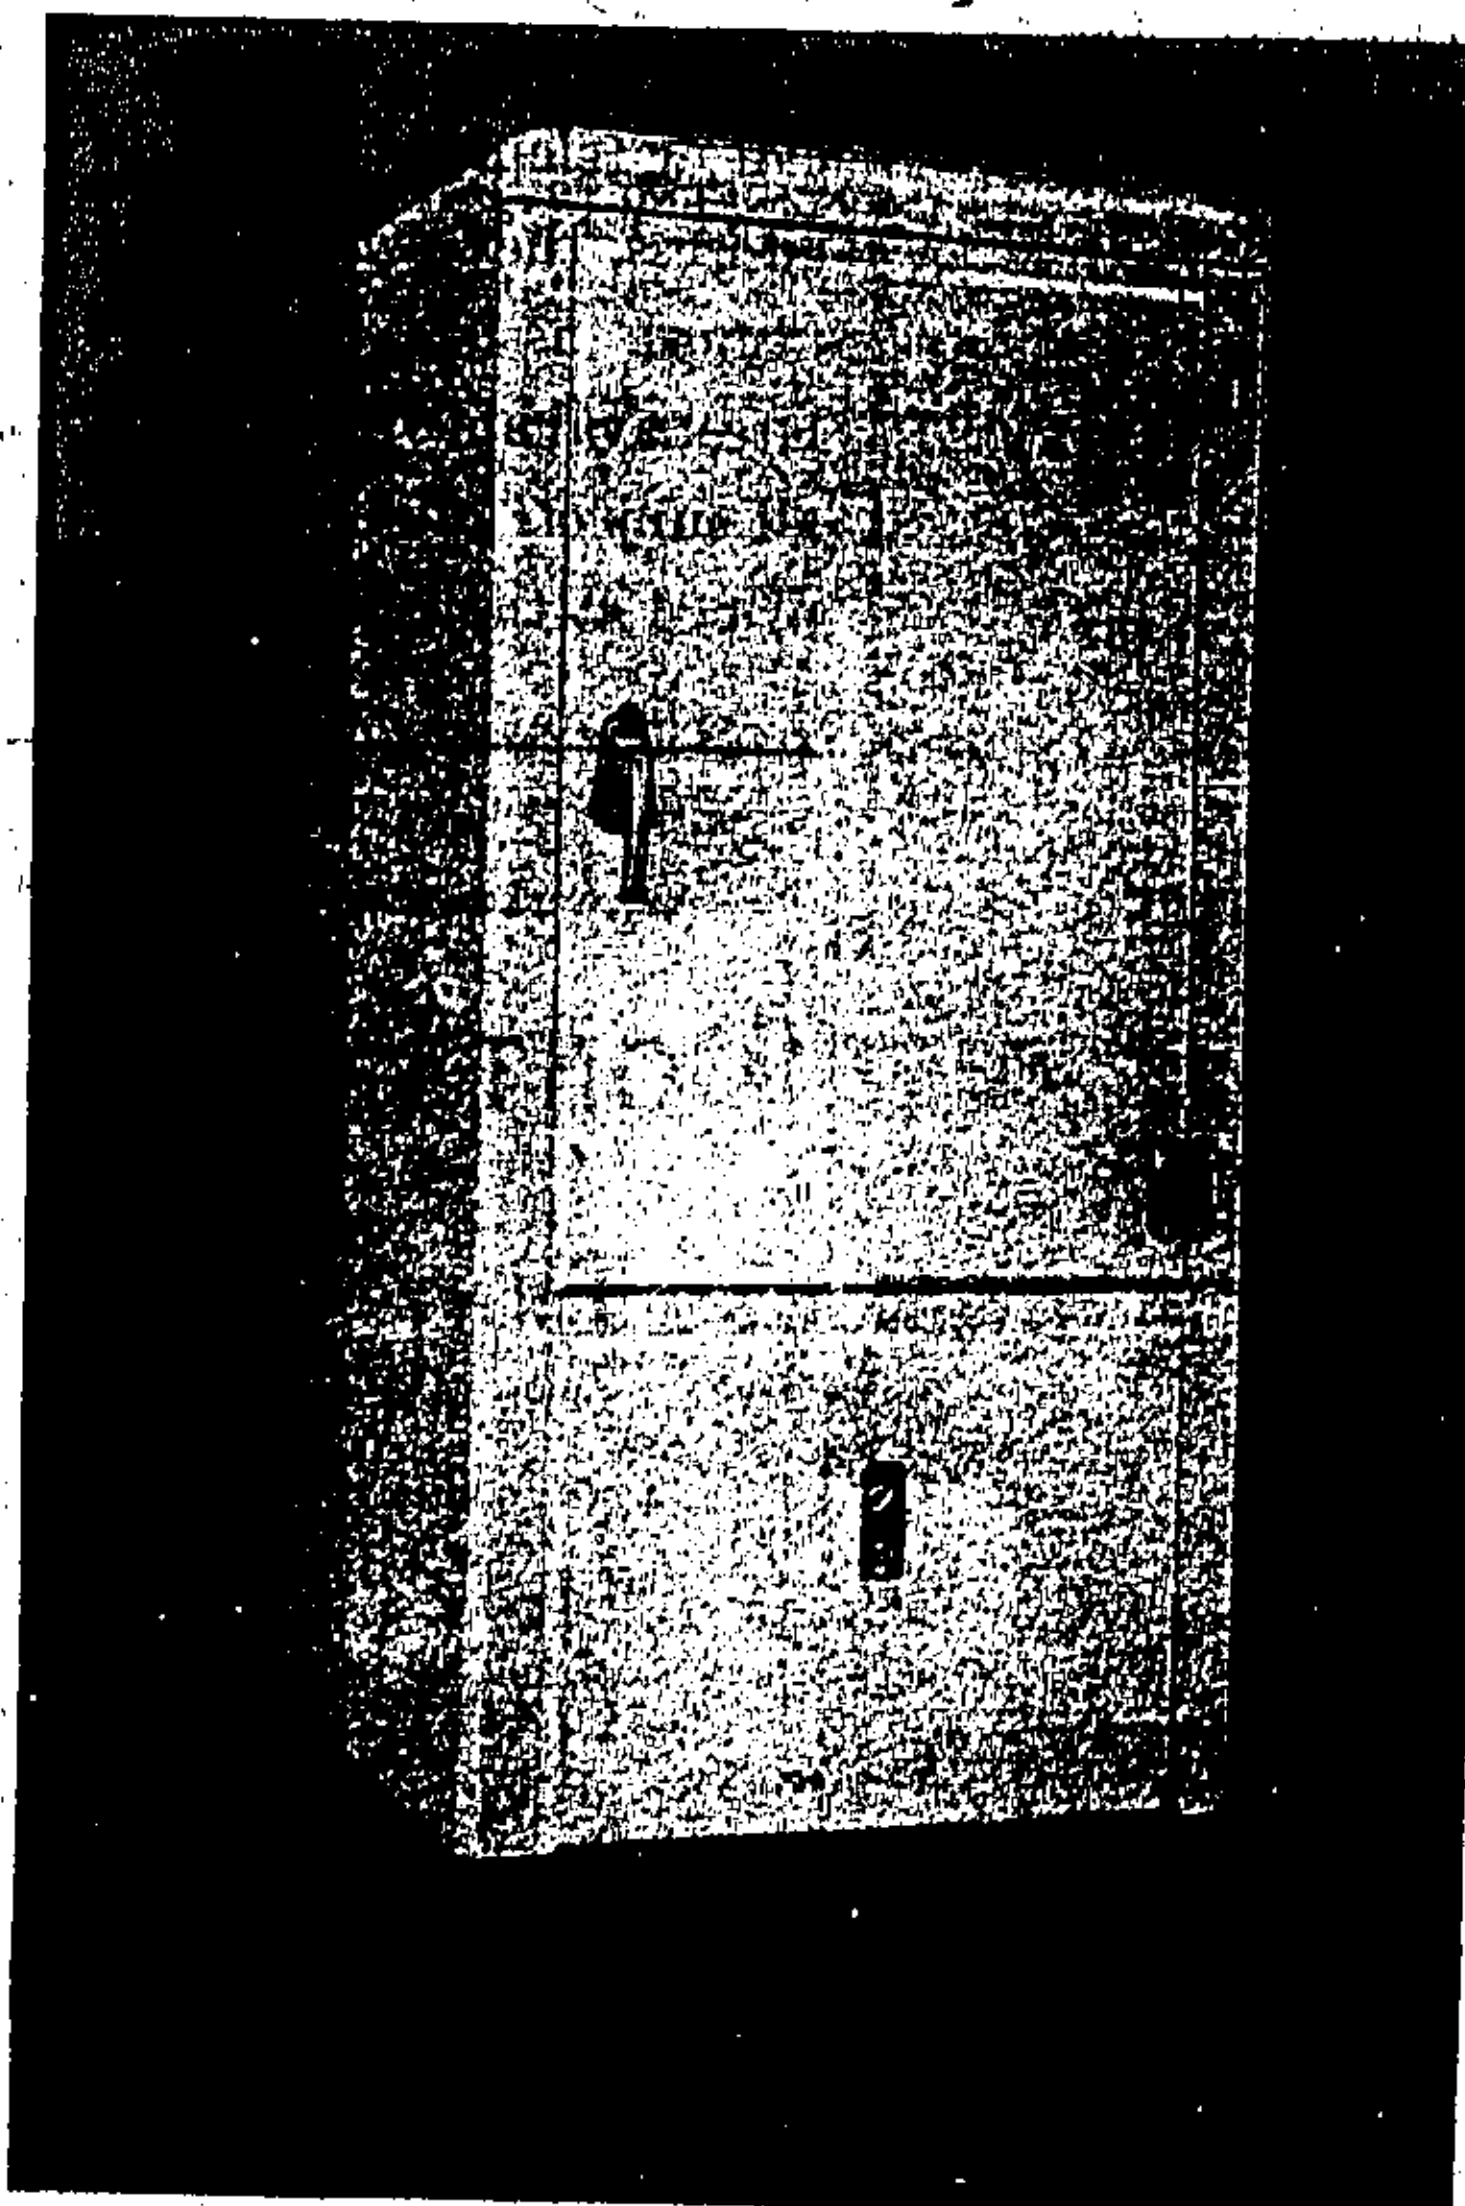

Put a third of the lettuce into a hot saucepan, metal or earthenware, and put on it a third of the butter, put in another third of the lettuce and another third of the butter pressing it down well, then add the rest in the same way.

In the middle, and on top put the peeled onions, the bouquet and the lumps of sugar. Sprinkle with salt.

Do not add any liquid at all. Cover closely and let it simmer very gently for from three-quarters of an hour to an hour. You will find that when the lettuce is done, there will be about four good tablespoonsful of liquid in the bottom of the pan. Bind this quickly with flour and a little butter, and serve the lettuce quickly.

Do not let the liquid boil away at all, or you will lose some of its delicate flavour. The bouquet will, of course, have been removed when the lettuce is done, but the onions may be served with it.

CHOCOLATE SWEET

A steamed chocolate pudding will please the family as well as warm them. The ingredients required are 2oz. breadcrumbs, 2oz. shredded suet, 2oz. sugar, 2oz. grated chocolate, one egg, a little milk, and a few drops of vanilla essence.

Dissolve the chocolate in the warm milk and bring to the boil, then pour over the breadcrumbs and leave to soak for half an hour.

Stir in the sugar and suet, add the beaten egg and vanilla essence.

Pour into a buttered mould and steam for two hours.

Serve with this chocolate sauce:—

Mix two teaspoonfuls of corn-flour to a smooth paste with cold milk. Bring 1 pint of milk to the boil and pour on to the cornflour.

Return to the pan, add a tablespoonful of grated chocolate and

FRUIT COCKTAIL FOR SIX

Ingredients:—1 sweet orange. One tin apricots, 6 maraschino cherries, 3 doz. grapes, grenadine syrup, a little sherry.

Remove pith, peel, and pips from the orange, and cut the pulp into small pieces with a silver knife. Cut the apricots in quarters, and peel and seed the grapes. Mix all together, moisten with apricot juice, a table-spoon of sherry, a table-spoon of maraschino syrup, and a teaspoon of grenadine syrup. Chill, place in cocktail glasses, and serve with a tiny sprig of fresh mint on top of each glass.

two tablespoonfuls of sugar, boil and stir till it thickens. Remove from fire, add a little vanilla essence.

RICE CAKE

It is difficult to get a satisfactory recipe for this wholesome and rather rarely made cake. The following has been tried with success. It is simple and is quickly made. Cream together the weight of two eggs in butter and castor sugar, and mix in the grated rind of half a lemon. Add two eggs, well beaten, two ounces of the best ground rice, and two ounces of sifted flour to which nearly a teaspoonful of baking powder has been added. Bake for an hour in a moderate oven.

Fitting

Mannequins dressed exactly like stained-glass window saints or pictures of saints by old Italian masters were a sensation at both Lanvin's and Huguette's openings. Of course, with saintly painted lips and encarnated finger-nails.

CINEMA TRADE NOTICES

CALM YOURSELF

"Calm Yourself" which closes to-day at the Queen's Theatre, packs all the laughs of the season's best farce, and in addition has outstanding entertainment qualities in a well-knit story that rings the bell for being humanly dramatic.

In this newest picture from the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios, Robert Young and Madge Evans are teamed in a screen narrative that is crammed with action plus merriment.

Young is the head of a "confidential service" bureau, and as such accepts whatever jobs that come along.

Miss Evans is a banker's daughter whose father, unknown to her, wishes the bureau head to "suppress" her—and the resulting complications set up more laughs than one has heard since the last blue moon.

THE BRIDE OF FRANKENSTEIN

Did you ever see a full grown woman brought to life?

All the astounding details of such a miraculous accomplishment were seen at Universal studios recently for the benefit of the cameras, with the infusing of life into the fantastic form of a woman built up from parts of dead bodies, attached to a backless skeleton stolen from an underground burial crypt. The feat took place in a great stone laboratory filled with advanced electrical appliances, and to the accompaniment of spurring flames, showers of sparks and exploding clouds of white smoke, while outside a terrific thunder storm raged and crashed.

These scenes now form a part of the strange Universal drama, "The Bride of Frankenstein," starring Karloff as "the monster," and depicted the creating of a mate for the Monster, himself previously "manufactured" by half-mad scientists in exactly the same manner. The role of the "Female Monster" was played by the noted English actress, Elsa Lanchester, and her make-up in the part is hardly less grotesque than that of the Monster himself.

"The Bride of Frankenstein," directed by James Whale, is now playing on the screen of the King's Theatre, and the cast appearing in support of Karloff includes Colin Clive, Valerie Hobson, O. P. Heggie, Ernst Thesiger, Una O'Connor,

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

"Great Expectations" comes to the screen of the King's Theatre next week with the real Dickens flavour untouched, right out of the pages of one of the most human, absorbing and dramatic novels conceived by this greatest of English novelists, an ever-living classic of literature for all time. The story of "Great Expectations" will never grow old. It is just as fascinating and thrilling to-day as it was when Dickens wrote it, almost a hundred years ago, in his beloved house at Gadshill. The story is full of descriptions of the countryside surrounding his home, of the Kentish lanes he loved so well; but it is also vivid with scenes of the London of his day, for Dickens was a great cosmopolitan figure, and could write of that great city and its people with more understanding than any writer has been able to do.

One of the most interesting scenes in "Great Expectations" is the Cheapside Inn, "Lily and the Swan." The various signs on it, such as "Coffee Room," "Coach Office," etc., were faithfully copied from books such as Cruikshank's "Days of Dickens" and actual places in which Charles Dickens himself stayed.

A cast of unusual merit interpret the well-known characters of "Great Expectations," Henry Hull, Florence Reed, Phillips Holmes and Jane Wyatt.

IT'S A GIFT

The production of Paramount's "It's a Gift," next change at the "Queen's Theatre," the smallest spotlight in existence was put into use. Designed especially for its purpose by the Paramount electrical department, the light has the following directions painted on its back.

"For use only on the nose of W. C. Fields." Ever since Fields, the star of "It's a Gift," has become an outstanding screen attraction, cameramen have struggled with the problem of focussing an ordinary sun lamp on such a small area as a nose, although Fields' protuberance could hardly be considered small under ordinary circumstances. The new "spot" solved that problem and pleases Fields no end. "My nose," says he with ponderous gravity, "is my most valuable prop."

OLD TRADITION PASSES

Back To One Again

The decision to equip the new Orient liner Orion with one funnel has given rise to some interesting comments, which suggest that in many cases funnels have become mere pieces of furniture.

The earlier steamships had but one funnel, and the addition of a second was due to the need for more power, which meant more boiler-space. Probably, one of the earliest multi-funnelled vessels was the Great Eastern; but she had two separate engine-systems, which doubtless determined the point.

Three funnels appeared in ships like the City of Paris, and some of the German liners of late Victorian days adopted three or even four. But two funnels gave the usual suggestion of pomp and circumstance right down to the Edwardian age and beyond.

The introduction of four funnels was a practical matter, based on speed and boiler requirements; naval vessels are not designed for show, and it was quite normal, up to the late war, for the design of fast ships, such as cruisers, to include four funnels. H.M.S. Terrible was an early example, and there was a Russian cruiser also, whose copious funnels earned her the nickname, "Packet of Woodhines"; the French cruiser Jeanne d'Arc displayed as many as six funnels, targets which would certainly have been refused if practical considerations had allowed.

THE DIESEL ENGINE

The introduction of the Diesel engine seemed likely to shock public opinion by depriving ships of any funnel at all—or, at least, of dignified dimensions. But before this development took place the public were already accustomed to ships belonging to some of the most important lines, which, owing to progress in engineering, found it possible to dispense with all but one funnel.

None the less, the idea had taken root in some quarters that the more the funnels the greater the safety and efficiency of the vessel; and the present writer, when engaged on some pre-war matter relating to shipping advertisements, was definitely assured that immigrants to the United States preferred, for reasons of safety, a multi-funnelled ship.

How far their notion may have been justified, history alone can say. It is at least strange that the multi-funnelled theory should have persisted and that, long after engineering progress had lowered the funnels or reduced them in number, "funnel-worship" should still exist. Its persistence is shown in the fitting of dummies (a practice at least a score of years old), used either as freshwater tanks, as workshops, as engineers' smoke-rooms, or for the numerous other purposes already cited.

CAMOUFLAGE

Dummy funnels have been rigged, however—as in the case of the Emden—to deceive the enemy, which is a different matter, though not so remote as may appear at first sight. The present writer assisted at some discussions, which took place late in the last war, concerning the outward appearance of the then non-existent "standard ships."

One of the arguments put forward was the importance, if practicable, of reducing the funnel (and the smaller the better), it is

NO LONGER NEEDED

Theatre Closes Down

On the outskirts of picturesque Atherstone, not so many miles from Shakespeare's birthplace, an old actor sits disconsolate on the steps of his caravan, writes a correspondent.

Mr. Horace Holloway, owner of the last of the old travelling theatres, belongs to an older, perhaps a merrier, England.

For centuries men like him have provided the villagers of England with melodrama.

Holloway, the last of them all, will do so no longer.

The villagers have outgrown his wares. He has closed his theatre down—reluctantly, fighting to the last ditch.

That was bad. A heavier blow has fallen.

Atherstone Council have ordered him to move his caravans. By October he must be gone.

Holloway, son of generations of troupers, said to me bitterly: "I shall stay on my pitch with my portable theatre until they eject me."

"ACTED ALL MY LIFE"

Using the dramatic gestures of an old Shakespearean actor, he told me something of his life.

"I was born sixty-two years ago at Hampstead Heath. My father had a portable theatre there."

"It was a grand company—thirty actors and a full orchestra. I began acting young. I have acted all my life."

"My wife was our leading lady and together we travelled throughout England. We produced the old, old favourites—East Lynne, 'The Mormon's Bride,' 'Home Sweet Home,' and many others."

"Until five years ago the theatre made a fair profit. Broadcasting and talkies have closed us down."

"Now we run a firewood business."

Mr. Holloway showed me his theatre with the craftsman's pride. It can hold 350 people.

We looked at the stage in silence. The scenery, torn and faded, was piled on one side. The sight told a real life tragedy more poignant than the old actor and his company have ever acted.

more difficult—especially with a certain reticence in the matter of masts—to estimate a vessel's exact course, and, therefore, more difficult to sink her with a torpedo.

The technical brains concerned invented the small funnelled War Shamrock and the other standard ships, which the war-time generation knew well enough; the present writer examined the ship in question through a periscope during her trials in the Firth of Clyde, and, to the lay eye at least, she was certainly a more puzzling business than a ship whose symmetry is more definitely insisted upon.

Time brings its revenges. The unfortunate marine artist of to-day is faced with a Normandy whose after funnel is of so little importance that its insignificance (plus stream-line theories) enables the designers to slope the whole "battery" down hill to the defence of all accepted rules of ship-perspective.

What the Fall of the Funnel will bring forth in the near future is still uncertain. It may be that in the event of a maritime war—how ever remote—it will have a definite bearing on the subject of marine camouflage.

MISS DE VAHL'S SECRET

Her Love Affair

An attractive girl, of nineteen, one of the few people in the confidence of her wealthy god-mother, Miss Nora Cecilia de Vahl told the writer the full story of Miss de Vahl's love for a former Indian Army captain, and of the circumstances of her death.

The girl is Miss Nonie Bentley, of Edith-road, Kensington. Her godmother's love for Mr. Vivian Godwin Robert—a love that lasted for fifteen years, and was cheated by her death a few months before they were to have married—was never a secret from her.

"My godmother," she said, "was a charming as well as a beautiful woman."

"It was no surprise to me that she had left Mr. Robert £30,000."

"Her love for her 'beloved fiancé,' as she always called him, was deep and unswerving."

"When she was taken ill with an infected throat, just before Easter, an operation was advised."

"She declined. She feared that scars would be left on her neck, making her less attractive in the eyes of her fiancé."

"Her condition grew worse. She was made to realise that only an operation would save her life, and she agreed."

"She said to me over and over again, 'I must live! For Vivian's sake, I must live!'"

TREASURED LETTERS

"Eleven doctors and surgeons attended her. Their efforts were in vain, and she died."

"Beyond everything my god-mother treasured the bundles of letters, one of which was written to her regularly every week by Mr. Robert."

"Sometimes she would retire to her study, untie the blue ribbons that bound the letters, and read and re-read them."

"Every room in her large house at Bayswater was full of photographs of him. Her conversation always turned to Mr. Robert and their forthcoming marriage."

Miss Bentley told me of her godmother's second secret—her unexpressed affection for her god-child.

"Perhaps," Miss Bentley said, "I ought to call her my fairy godmother."

"Her generosity was unbelievable. My mother was her friend. She died when I was ten years of age."

"HEE ONE THOUGHT"

"From that day Miss de Vahl never ceased to care for me."

"I was sent to a college in Kent, and when I left school she started a business for me in the West End of London."

"Her one thought was that I should be independent in the event of her going to India to marry Mr. Robert."

"She left me a considerable amount of jewellery and a sum of £1,500."

"I shall miss her terribly. She was the sweetest and kindest woman in the world."

Miss Bentley is engaged to Mr. Peter W. Finkle, a bank clerk.

Miss de Vahl, shortly before her death, had planned a large party at the Savoy Hotel to mark the engagement. It was never held.

THE WALDEN CASE

Help To Break Prison?

Shanghai, Sept. 7.

As expected, the Hankow mail plane brought, with it on Thursday exact details of the charge which Mr. Feltham Watson, District Attorney, will prefer in the U. S. Court for China against Messrs. Eugene Brinson and Carl J. Lemcke, American residents of Shanghai, who were arrested in Hankow last week and are being brought here in custody.

The charge, which was filed with the U. S. Court for China yesterday morning, reads as follows:—

"Eugene Brinson and Julius C. Lemcke, are accused by this information of the crime of rescuing prisoner committed as follows:—

"That Joseph Walden, alias Mr. X, was convicted and sentenced on or about the 24th day of August 1935 to a term of fifteen years imprisonment by the Provincial High Court of Hupeh, at Wuchang, Republic of China, being found guilty of espionage. That the said Joseph Walden, alias Mr. X, while in the legal custody of the Provincial High Court of Hupeh, at Wuchang, Republic of China, did then and there attempt to escape, and the said Eugene Brinson and Julius C. Lemcke did then and there directly aid, abet and assist the said Joseph Walden, alias Mr. X, in his attempt to escape from the custody aforesaid, contrary to the statute in such case made and provided, and against the peace and dignity of the United States of America."

OTHER CHARGES

Messrs. Lemcke and Brinson are charged with the violation of Section 246-Title 18 of the U.S.C.A., and bail was immediately fixed by Judge Milton J. Helmick in the amount of U.S. $2,500 each. Two further charges, of "assisting the Chinese Communist party to endanger the safety of the National Government," and of "bribing Chinese government officials," are understood to have been preferred against the two Americans by the Chinese authorities, but nothing in this connection has been heard from the District Attorney.

The two accused left Hankow on Thursday on board the s.s. Tuckow, in the custody of Mr. Edward L. Faupel, U. S. Marshal, who flew up to Hankow the day before yesterday upon receipt of telegraphic instructions from the District Attorney. They are expected to arrive here to-morrow at about 10.30 a.m.

Arrangements for the posting of the cash bonds will probably be made this morning by Mr. Norwood F. Alkman, counsel retained for the defence. Until he has had an opportunity to talk with the accused, no indication of the line of defence can be given, he said yesterday.

RADIUM FROM SALT

Value To Medical Profession

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Aug. 28.

Professor Ernest Lawrence, of the University of California, told the American Chemical Society at San Francisco yesterday that in his opinion it will soon be possible to produce cheap artificial radium. In his laboratory he is producing minute quantities of radio-sodium from common salt. He said that artificial radium should be produced shortly for commercial use from salt and other cheap substances such as phosphorus. The new salt-radium is formed by the atomic bombardment of salt using high-voltage electricity. Natural radium emits three forms of radiation, salt-radium only the gamma rays used for cancer treatment.

Professor Lawrence told his audience that whereas natural radium has a half-life of about 1,700 years, losing its intensity by half during that period, artificial radium has a half-life of only a few days or hours—in the case of salt-radium of about 15 hours. But he said that this brevity of life should be an advantage to the medical profession because radio-sodium could be injected into the tissues of a living person and was spontaneously destroyed in a few hours, whereas ordinary radium could not be injected because it had the power of radiating for years. Professor Lawrence could not estimate the cost of the new substance as a commercial proposition, but said it would be far less than the cost of natural radium. He added: "Some of my medical colleagues think it quite possible that the discovery of artificial radioactivity will ultimately be of greater importance to medicine than the discovery of natural radioactivity."

"Radioactivity was first produced artificially early in 1934 by M. Joliot and his wife, who is a daughter of the late Mme. Curie, discoverer of natural radium. Other methods were quickly devised by workers in other countries, and the work done on these lines was described in an article in 'The Times' on June 16, 1934."

MUI TSAI CASE

Admitting to the Kowloon Magistrate Mr. Thomson her failure to report the intended marriage of a registered "mul-tsal," named Ng Tse Ha (18), a married Chinese woman, Chan Tung Shi, of No. 25 Kent Road, Kowloon Tong, was fined $5 at the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday. Inspector T. O'Connor, of the Secretariat of Chinese Affairs, stated that the prosecution did not press for a very heavy penalty was the girls in question was well treated.

The case came to the notice of the S.C.C. when defendant made a report that the girl had been married in Shanghai during March this year. Prior to this, the defendant had reported that the girl was going to Shanghai with her (defendant's) sister.

The marriage had turned out well and there had only been a breach of the regulations by failing to report before the marriage. The girl stated that her husband was in Shanghai, and that she had only come back to Hong Kong to visit her old mistress.

NOT REGISTERED

Another married woman, Li Chiu, 38, residing at No. 158 Sal Yeung Choi Street, first floor, appeared in answer to a summons for keeping an unregistered "mul-tsal," Lai Chiu-mul, aged 17. A fine of $75, with the alternative of six weeks' imprisonment, was imposed.

UNSTAMPED RECEIPTS

For issuing unstamped receipts, the managers of two Chinese shops were fined $10 each by Mr. W. M. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday.

Ng Man Yung, manager of the Fook Shing shop, of No. 72 Temple Street, pleaded guilty to a summons for receiving a sum of $20.46 from the Tung Fong shop, No. 366 Nathan Road, for which he issued an unstamped receipt.

Tsol Chou, manager of the Tai Cheong shop, No. 130 Bonham Strand East, admitted receiving $20.66 from the Tung Fong shop, No. 366 Nathan Road, for which he issued an unstamped receipt. Sergeant Whitcroft, of the Colonial Treasury, appeared for the prosecution.

WAITER IN TROUBLE

A fine of $100, or two months' hard labour in default was imposed by Mr. W. Schofield at the Central Magistrate yesterday on Ho Tin Hoi (45), a waiter who admitted that he, being the principal tenant, did knowingly allow an opium divan at 184 Hollywood Road, first floor, yesterday.

In spite of a previous warning, Revenue Officer A. W. Grimmett stated that on Tuesday when the premises was raided, there were eight smokers present, four of whom were smoking with defendant in the cubicle. The latter admitted that he bought the opium for the others. He had a good job on board the river steamer Yuet On.

Defendant admitted a previous conviction this year for the possession of prepared opium and keeping an opium divan.

THEFT OF FANS

Three unemployed men, Chan Chuen, alias Chan Kau, 21, Kan Cheong, 28, and Cheung Kwok-shing, 30, were brought before Mr. Thomson at the Kowloon Magistrate yesterday, and were sentenced to ten weeks' hard labour each for stealing four overhead electric fans from No. 180 Austin Road, the property of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society of America.

Detective Sub-Inspector L. Whant appeared for the prosecution and the Rev. George Daly, Procurator of Marynoll House, appeared as complainant.

It was stated by the prosecution that on May 17, No. 180 Austin Road, which was the property of the Catholic Foreign Mission Society, was vacated, when the Mission removed to Stanley. No caretaker was left in charge of the vacated premises, although none of the fans and fittings were removed.

The third accused, who was employed by the Mission, under the pretext of going to Canton on a week's leave, with the help of the other two accused, dismantled the fan taking them away and selling them to various shops for a sum totalling $81.50.

INTIMIDATION CHARGE

At the Central Magistrate, yesterday, three men are charged before Mr. W. Schofield with intimidating a married woman.

Detective Sergeant Fitches is in charge of the case. The complainant is a married woman working as a waitress at the Chui Hoi tea shop Wanchai.

In giving her evidence Tang Chun, complainant, said that she had worked as a waitress at a tea shop at No. 33 Wanchai Road for over two months. On August 29 the three defendants, Li Lin, Lai Yan Choi, and Ma Shui Tong came to the shop to drink tea at 2 p.m. and she served them. On September 3 they came again at 10.45 p.m. When she served them the first defendant said "you have done something wrong." She enquired what he meant and he asked her for $30 and said that if she joined a Triad Society she would be all right in her job. She said that she could not pay the $30 required whereupon the first defendant struck her on the arm.

After some deliberation they agreed to accept $10, and payment was to be made within ten days' time, and if she did pay the money she would not be able to work there at all. The second accused threatened to assault her if she did not pay the money. On September 7 she found that she only had $2 so she went and made a report to the police.

On the night September 8 at about 9 p.m. two detectives were stationed at the tea shop, and later the three defendants passed the shop but did not enter. At 11 p.m. they came again and called complainant outside. She then pointed them out to the detectives who arrested the three defendants.

At this stage his Worship adjourned the case, the accused being remanded, bail being fixed at $500 each.

A summons against Li Yau-to, of 5 Tin Lok Lane, for having a motor car radio set without a licence at Room No. 603 Luk Kwok Hotel, Wanchai, was mentioned before Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistrate yesterday. The defendant was absent and the case was adjourned for a week. Sergeant G. Carruthers stated that the set was being tested at the time, as it had just come back from repairs. Mr. A. E. E. Jeffries, Wireless Technician, P. W.D., was present in Court.

Kwok Lin appeared before Mr. Macfadyen at the Central Magistrate yesterday, charged with returning to the Colony after having been banished for a period of 10 years, from January 5 this year. Defendant pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 12 months' hard labour.

Pang Ho, a woman, aged 60 years, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen yesterday at the Central Magistrate, charged with the unlawful possession of a European-style dinner suit at the Wing Cheong Pawnshop, 354 Queen's Road West. Defendant pleaded guilty and was fined $30, or one month's hard labour. Det-Sgt. Gowans said he was at the pawnshop at the time defendant entered and wanted to pawn the suit for $5. Defendant pleaded guilty and said that she was given five cents for pawning the suit.

Ng Pui, a 41-year-old unemployed man, appeared before Mr. Macfadyen yesterday, at the Central Magistrate, charged with obstructing Mohamed Khan, a police constable, whilst in the execution of his duty at Graham Street near Wellington Street. Acting Sub-Inspector Smith said that at 4.30 p.m. yesterday the constable arrested a hawker who was selling fish. Defendant came from the back and snatched the basket from the constable, with the result that the prisoner escaped. Defendant was then arrested by the constable. Acting Sub-Inspector Smith asked his Worship to take a serious view of the case. Defendant was fined $5, or 14 days' hard labour.

A fine of $175, with the alternative of two months' hard labour, was imposed by Mr. Schofield at the Central Magistrate on Yip, aged 30, unemployed, who admitted a charge of possession of 224 "po-pu" lottery tickets. De-

DISTURBANCE IN GREECE

Monarchy Question Gains Ground

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).)

Athens, Sept. 10.

The sequel to the fracas between the Republican officers and the Republican guard after Monday's cabinet meeting, when the officer ordered the soldiers to shoot the Commander of the First Army Corps, General Panayotakis, was the declaration by Premier Tsaldaris yesterday expressing strong indignation of the incidents and promising punishment to the culprits.

These disturbances went on Tsaldaris was due to the uncertainty existing in the nation and army as to the future form of government. His personal conviction declared the Minister, was that the democratic monarchy is the natural rescue for Greece and he had already advised his constituency to vote for the monarchy.

A great mass demonstration organised by the Royalists was held in the evening when the Premier was enthusiastically acclaimed for his declaration in favour of the restoration of the monarchy.

The Premier has now also assumed the post of Minister of the Interior in place of Rallis, whose resignation is now confirmed, while General Panayotakis, a semi-official agency states was slightly injured in the course of Monday's struggle and therefore has been relieved of the command of First Army Corps, which has been placed in the hands of General Papagos. Transocean Kuo Min.

Defendant was arrested in Ke Shing Street. Detective Sergeant Kin-near prosecuted.

A Shanghai man, Chang, Mu Chin, 24, was fined $3 and bound over by Mr. Schofield at the Central Police Court yesterday, when he pleaded guilty to assaulting a compatriot, Tong Mu-to, 24, at 342 Lockhart Road. Detective-Lozesky stated that both men were employed as fitters at the same shop. On Monday morning the defendant sent an apprentice out to buy bread. On his return the defendant scolded him regarding the poor quality of the bread. Complainant interfered and an argument ensued, during which the defendant was alleged to have struck the complainant with a wooden hammer, causing slight discolouration of the right eye.

TO GET RID OF STOMACH TROUBLES

An English Doctor writes:—

"I find that 'Bisurated' Magnesia taken after most of my meals is the only thing that keeps me free from pain and discomfort, and I take it regularly. I often prescribe it for my patients, and have had very good results."

(Signed) Dr. H. G. M.A., M.R.C.S., L.R.C.P.

THE English doctor is the most conservative medical man in the world, and when he not only recommends but personally uses a remedy there can be no more convincing proof of its efficacy. This doctor is but one of many who constantly advise the use of "Bisurated" Magnesia in all cases of indigestion. Most stomach trouble is caused by acidity, and the reason why "Bisurated" Magnesia gives quick relief is that it instantly neutralises excess acid and soothes, heals and strengthens the inflamed stomach lining. Nothing could be simpler, safer or surer. If you suffer with indigestion or stomach disorder of any kind put your faith in European science and make an end of your troubles by taking "Bisurated" Magnesia after eating or whenever pain is felt.

THE MOON-CAKE FESTIVAL

"Some Are Happy"

Our Chinese friends in the Colony to-day will again celebrate the Mid-Autumn or the Moon-Cake Festival, as in previous years, but owing to the acute trade depression the festivities lacked some of the "good cheer" of the previous years.

The big department stores and shops will make a display with hundreds of electric lights, and lanterns of different colour and designs will be displayed by the majority of Chinese residences in the Colony.

According to the lunar calendar, this festival falls on the 15th day of the 8th moon, and the general display of lanterns is the reason for its being styled the "Feast of Lanterns" by the foreign visitors.

Many ignorant Chinese women worship the Fairy Goddess, Sheung Ngor, of the Moon, during this festival, but education has now put an end to this superstitious belief.

The Chinese celebrate this festival by feasting and eating moon-cakes and seasonal fruits, and the hotels and restaurants will undoubtedly be well-patronized.

Formerly, the leading restaurants of the Colony did a profitable business by exporting moon-cakes to the overseas Chinese in the different colonies, but owing to trade depression, the trade in moon-cakes is now practically nil. The profit on this item alone was sufficient to pay for the year's running expenses.

MID-AUTUMN GLADNESS
In connection with this festival and the hard times, which we in this Colony are experiencing, it is interesting to recall the following Chinese saying, which applies to rich and poor alike:—
"The fifteenth day of the eighth moon."

Is when Mid-Autumn is celebrated in gladness;
Some are happy and enjoying themselves,
Whereas others pass the hours in sadness."

According to Chinese history, the 15th day of the 8th moon was selected for the starting of many great and important political and social movements, particularly, the rebellion of the "monk" Chu Yuan Chang, the founder of the Ming Dynasty, who drove the usurping "Yuan" tartars out of China.

The Mid-Autumn Festival is most popular with all classes of Chinese, and the inter-change of presents of moon-cakes, wines and fruits between relatives and friends helps to cement the friendly and cordial relations, which are necessary for good society.

Again, this is the day generally selected by recipients of favours to express their gratitude to their benefactors.—Tse.

MOTOR MISHAP

A minor motor mishap, involving a Chinese woman passenger has been brought to the notice of the police authorities.

Kong So, a licensed driver, states in a report to the police that while driving car No. 122 along the Castle Peak Road, near Sheung Kwai Chung, Tsun Wan district, car No. 321, which was ahead, suddenly stopped, and his car crashed into its rear. Chung Iol-kin, a woman passenger, who was seated in the front of his vehicle, was injured about the forehead and upper lip. She was removed to the Kowloon Hospital for treatment.

While travelling on motor lorry No. 2232 in Waterloo Road on Tuesday afternoon, a woman, Chan Chau, fell off and received injuries which necessitated her removal to hospital.

FOR THE ZOO

Twenty-nine Indian snakes—cobras, Russell vipers, banded kraits and rat snakes—arrived at the Zoo last month.

During their 5,000-mile journey they received no food. At intervals they were sprinkled with water.

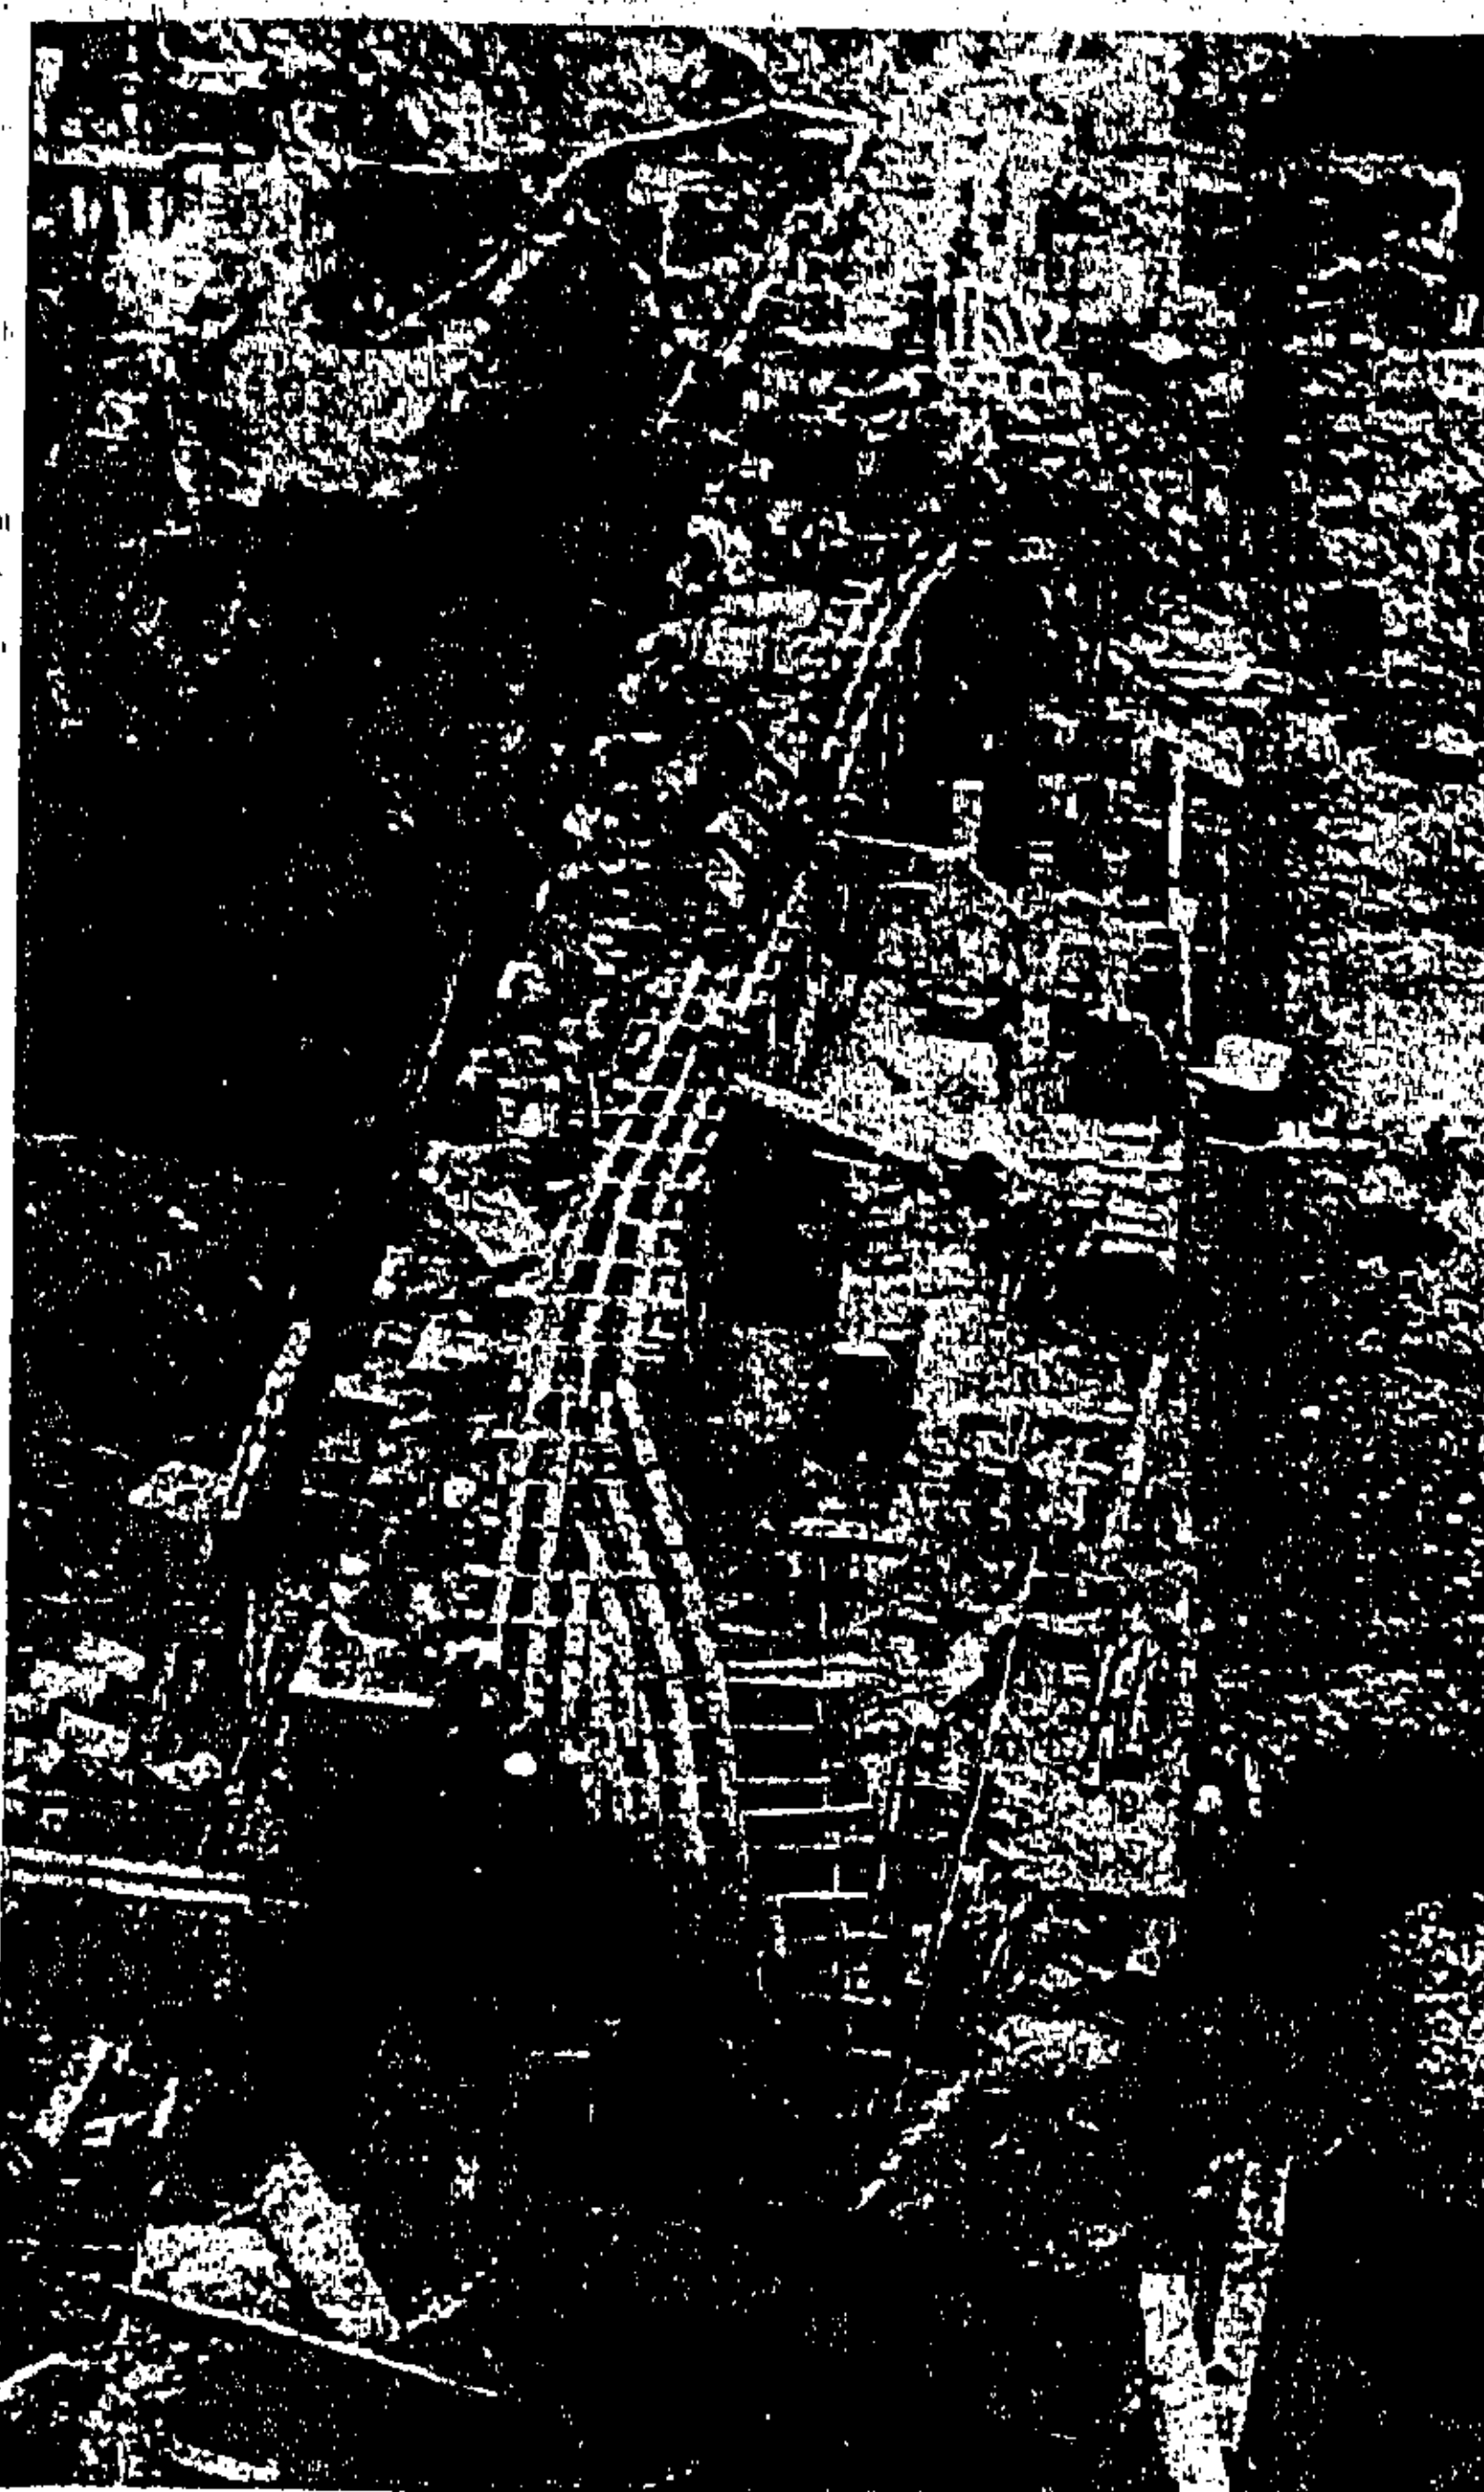

Keepers unpacked them with caution. They clutched the wriggling snakes firmly behind their heads to avoid being poisoned.

The nine Russell vipers, besides being on show, will be used for medical purposes.

It was recently found that certain cases of haemophilia, a mysterious disease of the blood inherited only by sons, can be prevented by dried and sterilised venom from these vipers.

This venom is collected by making the snakes bite on a wine glass, over which oil silk has been stretched.

This picture gives an excellent idea of the work that is going on in Shing Mun.

THE COLONY'S BUDGET

To Be Introduced To-day

The Colony's Budget, which will be introduced at the Legislative Council this afternoon, will make provision for expenditure, exclusive of the Military Contribution and the charges of Public Debt, totalling $23,840,416 in 1935.

This total compares with the 1934 estimate of $26,324,219, and therefore the expenditure budgeted for is $2,483,803 less than that for the current year. In the former figure, however, was a sum of $500,000 in respect of the Naval Arsenal yard scheme, for which there is no expenditure in the coming year.

The abstract of expenditure for 1935 shows decreases under practically all heads, although Public Works Extraordinary are represented by a figure of $3,207,560, which is $206,110 more than the estimate for the current year.

There is a decrease in Harbour Department expenditure of $282,814, in Air Services of $32,584 (on an estimate for the coming year of $38,331), and in the Police Department of $168,955.

RECORD SALES

At Radiolympia

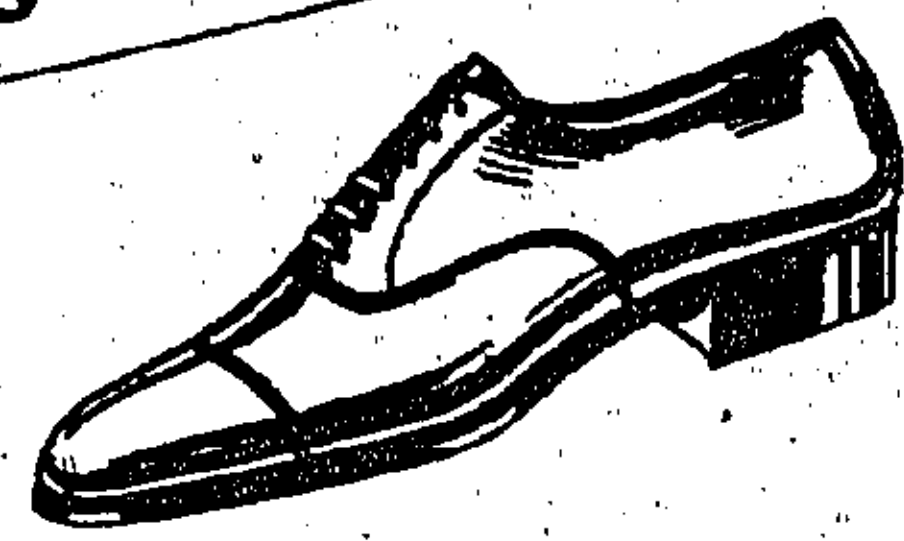

The National Radio Exhibition at Olympia closed on Saturday night. Orders placed during the exhibition represent the sale of at least 1,800,000 wireless receivers during the present season, and it is estimated that of these 800,000 will not to people who have not previously possessed sets.

These orders, with the sale of component parts and accessories, will bring the total turnover of the industry for the season to £30,000,000—a record in the history of the trade.

It is the view of the Radio Manufacturers' Association that the number of licensed listeners will reach 3,000,000 during the season. It is also calculated that about 4,000,000 of the receivers in public use are obsolescent as a result of developments in transmission systems and changes in set construction.

JEWISH PROTEST TO MANCHUKUO

Shanghai, Sept. 11.

Mr. N. E. B. Ezra, editor of "Israel's Messenger," called at the Japanese Legation to-day and protested against an incident in Harbin in which the Manchukuo Police "instigated by White Russians" were alleged to have entered a synagogue to search for "arms and banned literature."

Mr. Ezra also complained against Jewish boycott and frequent kidnapping of Jews in Harbin.

A spokesman of the Japanese Legation promised to draw the attention of the Manchukuo Government to the matter.—Reuter.

LOAN TO CHINESE COLLIERIES

London, Sept. 11.

Nothing is known in London either in official or business circles of the proposed Shanghai British Loan to the Chinese Collieries. It is reported that the Japanese protest in the connection does not surprise Chinese interests. The latter point out the report that the Japanese Vice-Minister of Finance has informed Sir Frederick Leith-Ross that Japan considers assistance to China for stabilising the political situation is a first necessity and more essential than an international loan which only dote the Ts and crosses the Ts according to previous forecasts of the Japanese attitude.

It is emphasised that the Japanese Press apprehensions regarding the Leith-Ross and Hammond missions are groundless. It is no part of Great Britain's policy to add complications and animosities in the Far East.—Reuter.

ANGLO-CHINESE FRIENDSHIP

It is necessary that those who reside in China should acquire an accurate and intimate knowledge of the political, economic and social conditions of those among whom their lot is cast. On such knowledge depends an intelligent grasp, and the successful solution, of each new problem as it arises, problems from which the ordinary person cannot escape if he has to deal with the Chinese at all. The most effective way of doing this, of course, is to acquire a knowledge of the language. It must be borne in mind, however, that many foreigners come to China late in life, and that many British people have neither the time for, nor the gift of, acquiring foreign languages. Moreover, as English is the secondary language in the Far East, there is no great stimulus to special effort in this direction. In practice, therefore, the ordinary individual has to depend upon other sources for that necessary knowledge upon which depends the right attitude of mind in our dealings with the Chinese.

One effective method is to establish a friendship with a Chinese who is not only well versed in his own lore, but also well acquainted with the English language. The number in this class is a large and growing one. An extension of this procedure would be the formation of small groups which meet together periodically on a social footing for free and frank discussion of the questions of mutual interest, for it is not only necessary that we should understand Chinese ways of thought, but that they should understand ours. Something has already been done in a small way in Hong Kong and Shanghai, with considerable profit to both sides. If these groups could be increased, not in size, but in number, the resulting benefit would be incalculable. The advantage of such a system is, that it affords opportunities of checking and, if necessary, correcting information and impressions derived from books and periodicals. There is further the benefit, in a group of educated people of this type, of one supplementing and clarifying the facts supplied by the other, and above all there is the vivid effect which accompanies knowledge received from, and associated with, a living personality. Such knowledge impresses more deeply than that acquired from the book, whose author we do not know, or know only by repute.

If such groups, then, would only increase in an informal way, they should lead to a central organization in town, which would cater for the large needs of the public by providing lectures of an interpretative nature, and perhaps offering a Chinese play, occasionally. Finally would come the establishment, on normal lines of a central Anglo-Chinese social club which would probably emerge from a club dedicated in the first instance to outdoor sport. The exceeding charm of this Colony lies in the beauty of its everlastingly hills and its green islands, and the curse of it is the absence of level spaces, and the enormous labour and cost involved in creating them. Hence the almost insuperable barrier to an international sports club, which must be fairly central and reasonably accessible if it is to serve the purpose and be effective. Yet the objects aimed at, mutual understanding and good-will, are of such transcendent importance that some solution must be found to this difficulty.

BAHRAM DOES IT AGAIN Five-Length Win In St. Leger

London, Sept. 11.

Bahram, the Derby winner, brought another victory for the Aga Khan in the St. Leger run at Doncaster to-day. The following was the result:—

Bahram (Smirke) 1
Solar Ray (Strrett) 2
Buckleigh (H. Wraggs) 3
There were eight starters, Bahram winning by five lengths while three lengths separated second and third.

The betting was 4/1 Bahram, 100/6 Solar Ray and 25/1 Buckleigh. Special place betting was proportionate on Bahram, 2/1 Solar Ray, 4/1 Buckleigh.

Other starters were Fairbairn (G. Richards), Field Trial (Dick), Flash Bye (Jones), Flassy (Perryman), Fry II (Waston).

Halran, the Aga Khan's, other entry, did not run as Smirke rode the favourite according to the Aga Khan's decision when Fox, who was booked to ride Bahram, was injured the previous day when riding Sheldrake who slipped up with him during the Stand Selling Plate.—Reuter.

RACE DESCRIBED

London, Sept. 11.

There was a fairly good start. Flash Bye made the pace from Fairbairn, Fry and Bahram. After the half mile Flash Bye led Field Trial, Fairbairn, and Bahram. Half way Flash Bye had three lengths clear of the field with Buckleigh last.

Entering the straight, Field Trial got in front, followed by Flash Bye and Bahram. Flash Bye dropped back shortly afterwards, beaten a quarter mile from home.

Smirke whipped Bahram at which the horse bounded forward into a two lengths lead which he increased with each stride.

Solar Ray came through below the distance, but he was no match for the favourite, who had a most easy victory.

Buckleigh was fast in making up ground and took third place two lengths in front of Flassy. Fairbairn was fifth, Field Trial sixth, Fry II seventh and Flash Bye tailed off.

The time was 3 mins. 1-4/5 seconds, the distance being one mile and 1,472 yards.—Reuter.

THE FIFTH TEST MATCH South Africa Win The Rubber

(Special Air Mail Service)

London, Aug. 25.

The test match at the Oval ended in a draw, as it was almost bound to do on a wicket which gave the bowlers no chance from early on Saturday morning until the last moment, and so South Africa, having won the only match which in this series has had a definite result, have earned the rubber, writes a correspondent. There was a time when the game was palpably alive.

Wyatt had declared England's bowlers closed at the luncheon interval with a lead of 58 runs. Two South African wickets fell quickly, and at 10 minutes past three another tumbled down and South Africa were only nine runs ahead. At 4 o'clock England took yet another wicket, but by then runs counted as much as wickets and Cameron, hitting 4 after 4, made certain that, if even the wickets fell, England could not make the runs in time. Test matches are generally regarded as dull affairs, and it has been suggested that three days are not sufficient to test the full strength of two international teams, but I never wish to see a better cricket match than this has been. Whether Wyatt was right or wrong in putting South Africa in to bat when he had won the toss is a matter of opinion. Certainly he offered the chance of a finish, which as things went during the three days he very nearly attained.

AN IMPROVED SIDE
South Africa can have had only one purpose. They would have liked, batting on a good wicket on Saturday, to have won one more game, but England bowled well enough and fielded so superbly that they had perforce to keep quiet; and well they did it. A side can only play as well as the others allow them to do; there was no Bradman, or Ponsford at the Oval or this game, but, making all allowances, I think that England looked a much better side than they did 12 months ago on this ground.

In the morning England with four wickets down, were only 163 runs behind, but time was against them. Wade, with an attack which might give runs away, made the most of Vincent, who, whatever the wicket and the occasion, can be relied upon to keep things quiet. He made the ball spin so much, beating the batsman and even, Cameron, that there were visions of a broken pitch and a finished match. Ames and Leyland put that matter quite clear by treating the break of the ball as nothing more than normal and walking in to hit it hard from the middle of the bat. Ames drove the ball to the off, leaning quietly to the ball which came at a nice pace to the bat, while Leyland hit in his compact way with a last minute flourish of the bat. Langton bowled some good overs, but England were scoring runs, and the ridiculous as it may seem, some people began to think of England winning the match.

Leyland, who had played as good an innings as has been seen in this series of Test matches, was out rather unnecessarily. Wade put Mitchell on, and to his second he was swished untidily and was stumped without a hope of getting back. Leyland always has been a Test Match player; his outlook on the game is so serene and yet cheerful, and he knows a great deal about bowlers. In his innings he had hit 17 4's and one 6, but figures do not count when Leyland is standing with one hand on his hip, comforting the batsman at the other end, or trotting about the field, saving runs. This is a great cricketer. Nichols, who was sent in next, could make little use of his flourish and good intent. Wade, such a magnificent fielder close to the wicket, and his bowlers kept the runs down on a ground on which the ball flew off the bat at the lightest touch. Nichols was out to a good catch when square-leg had to run back to hold a skler, and a couple of 4's from Robins sent England in to lunch, even with the knowledge that the innings would be declared closed.

A FURIOUS ATTACK
Ames had done splendidly for his side, and when England's bowlers attacked again after the interval he was alive and prepared to do his share. Wyatt began his bowling with Bowes, from the Pavilion end, and Read, who bowled to five slips. There was the picture of a furious on slaught. The ball passed bat and pads, and at 16 Mitchell was bowled by a ball which came through faster than anyone had expected and also kept rather low. If some had said that this match was going to finish duly they must now have sat up, for there was a sudden promise of excitement. And when, with only 23 runs on the board, Rowan was bowled by a ball which went through everything from Bowes, who in this match had given of his best, there was a thrill which could be felt.

Just afterwards Siedle, who is so valuable on such an occasion, played a ball down to second slip which might have been a catch. At 10 minutes to 3 Robins came on at the Vauxhall end, but he pitched the ball short. Clay, at the other end—and it was remarkable that Wyatt so often had two slow bowlers or two fast bowlers on at the same time—spun the ball enough to make the batsmen play hurriedly. Somehow his short-legs became rather muddled, and if only Hammond and Mitchell had been close under the bat, not too wide, a wicket might have fallen. Nichols had not been used.

VILJOEN'S ESCAPE

Bowes was put on again, and after he had been hit straight for 4 from a straight ball he knocked Siedle's stumps back with a ball pitched well up. Viljoen was now the man who mattered, and South Africa had a wonderful escape when he gave a gully a chance which should have been taken. Had that catch been held England might well have won the game. That was at 10 minutes to 4. The next wicket fell at 4 o'clock, when Read, who had bowled like a hero in this match, bowled Nourse, but it was Viljoen, not Nourse, whom England wanted to see back in the Pavilion. Cameron settled the whole match by hitting three 4's in one over, two to the off and one to leg, off Read, and South Africa in 10 minutes were ahead of time and everything. Bowes bowled one splendid over shortly afterwards to Viljoen, but even so there were too many runs on the board. Robins from the Vauxhall end, finding a better length, had the pleasure of having first Cameron and then Viljoen stumped, but the game was finished.

BRITISH GOVERNMENT FAITHFUL TO THE LEAGUE

Sir Samuel Hoare Addresses The Assembly

RECOURSE TO ARMS CONDEMNED

British policy in the Italo-Abyssinian dispute was clarified by Sir Samuel Hoare when he addressed the League Assembly. The British Government's attitude, he said, was one of unwavering fidelity to the League in the past as well as the present case.

Dealing at length with collective security and covenant obligations, Sir Samuel said that the security of many cannot be ensured solely by the efforts of a few, however powerful they may be, and that Britain was second to none in the intention to fulfill the obligations of the covenant.

Sir Samuel said that something must be done to remove the causes leading to war and some other way must be found than recourse to arms. Any changes necessary will have to be made when the time is ripe, not before, not by unilateral action, nor by threat of war.

Geneva, Sept. 11.

It is understood that M. Laval conversed over the telephone with Signor Mussolini, but so far as it can be ascertained at present M. Laval is not disposed to show a more amenable frame of mind.

This is the prelude to one of the most exciting days in Geneva for many years. The densely packed corridors cheered the arrival of M. Laval and Sir Samuel Hoare.

SIR SAMUEL ADDRESS

Sir Samuel Hoare rose at 11.12 a.m. Addressing the hushed Assembly, he declared it was unjust and dangerously misleading to suggest that Britain was animated by a lower motive than fidelity to the League, and also that even this fidelity cannot even be relied upon.

On the contrary the British Government's attitude was always one of unwavering fidelity to the League, and in the present case it is continuing that rule. The recent response of public opinion shows how completely the nation supports the Government in the full acceptance of the obligations of League membership as the keynote of its foreign policy.

COLLECTIVE SECURITY

Collective security is a complex conception meaning much more than what is commonly called sanctions. It means not merely Article 16 but the whole covenant, and scrupulous respect of all treaty obligations. It is based on freely accepted fundamental obligations to submit disputes to peaceful methods of settlement according to the procedure provided by the covenant.

Finally there is the obligation of collective action to terminate war in the event of a member resorting thereto in disregard of the covenant.

The underlying obligation was the expectation that this system will be supported by the universal world of sovereign states or by far the greatest part thereof.

BRITISH SINCERITY

Sir Samuel Hoare confessed that British sincerity of its ideals springs from enlightened self-interest, and in this connection he cited an example of the possibility of making better use of the world's economic resources.

As regards colonial raw materials, it was not unnatural the existing state of affairs should arouse fears of exclusive monopolies established at the expense of countries not possessing colonial empires and it may be a problem exaggerated and exploited for other purposes, but we would be foolish to ignore it that Britain should be ready to participate in an investigation of these matters.

If the burden of the covenant obligations is to be borne it must be borne collectively, said Sir Samuel. The security of many cannot be ensured solely by the efforts of a few, however powerful. "Britain will be second to none in the intention to fulfill within the measure of our capacity the obligations which the covenant lays upon us," said Sir Samuel. "We believe that all nations have a valuable contribution to make to the common stock of humanity and believe that backward nations, without prejudicing their independence and integrity, are entitled to expect more advanced peoples to assist in the development of their resources to build up their national life."

NOT THE WAR METHOD

Sir Samuel Hoare continued that something must also be done to remove the causes from which war is apt to arise. Some other way than recourse to arms must be found to adjust the natural play of international forces, but justice of the claim for a change is not necessarily proportionate to national passions which are aroused in support thereof and too often the desired change would create more injustices than it removed. Such changes will have to be made when the time is ripe, not before, not by unilateral action, nor by threat of war.

The members of the League must address themselves to this as well as other aspects of security if the rule of law in international affairs is to be established and confirmed.

MR. YEN SPEAKS

The Chinese delegate, Mr. W. W. Yen, declared it was gratifying that the Powers forming the pillars of the League, confronted with a grave situation in Europe and elsewhere, finally realised that the peace of the world depends on their efforts to infuse new life into the League and that for our League again to fail to assert its authority would irretrievably ruin its efficacy as an instrument of peace.

Membership of the League automatically imposed an obligation to participate in a joint collective effort to maintain the territorial and political integrity of League members. If all the members of the League fulfilled their obligations under the covenant, neither new principles nor new procedures would be necessary for assuring collective security.

Describing the regional pacts as like half a loaf being better than no bread, Mr. Yen said it was imperative that the system of regional pacts should be extended to every part of the world.

LEAGUE'S FAILURE

Mr. Yen concluded that the League, while taking cognizance of wars, declared or undeclared, in various parts of the world, had failed not in that it lacked the means to right wrong but that it lacked courage to bring wrongdoers to reason. This state of things profoundly disappointed the Chinese and other peoples.

Dealing with reconstruction in China, he said that the progress in the last few years in economic development was remarkable. A strong and prosperous China was the key to world economic recovery and world peace.

PAINFUL IMPRESSION ON ITALIANS

French Praise for Sir Samuel Hoare

Geneva, Sept. 11. The Italians are painfully impressed with Sir Samuel Hoare's speech.

An official, seen by Reuter, asked "why does Britain take such a strong line against an old friend like Italy and yet show such weakness against Germany and Japan?" An eminent French commentator expressed it as "one of the finest efforts heard at Geneva. It takes one back to the days of Lord Curzon when Britain emerged from her reserve and resumed undisputed leadership in foreign affairs."

MUSSOLINI WILL NOT YIELD

French Press Hold Out No Hope

Paris, Sept. 11.

According to the Press, M. Laval will see Sir Samuel Hoare after the latter's speech and try to obtain a large concession. Later the French Premier will see Baron Aloisi and make a formal offer based on the talk with the British statesman.

Pertinax, the French political writer, says that M. Laval has little hope that Signor Mussolini will accept an offer which will only save his conscience. Mussolini's attitude is inflexible; he has disclaimed all diplomacy.

The French Press is definitely hardening in Britain's favour. The "Petite Parisien" writes of closer collaboration between France and Britain, while "Le Matin" says that the collaboration is closer than ever and nothing will cloud it.

TRIAL MOBILISATION IN ITALY

"Steering A Straight Course"

(Special to "Hong Kong Daily Press")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1891. Received, September 11, 4.30 p.m.)

Rome, September 11.

Signor Mussolini's order for a trial mobilisation of all the military forces in Italy for the Italian colonies, on an alarm to be given from towers, by factory sirens or by drums in every city, town and village, at a not far distant date, caused a tremendous sensation here.

All the papers display the text of the decree printed prominently under big headings. Their attitude has been summed up in the words: "Italy's answer to the anti-Fascists and the Freemason movement."

Ten million men will take part in this gigantic mobilisation, writes the "Giornale d'Italia," adding that it gives point to M. Duce's recent words "we are steering a straight course on our road."

"The best and most effective commentary on the present international situation" is how the "Lavoro Fascista" describes the mobilisation order. "It will serve to remind the world of Mussolini's simple and classic formula, with or without or against Geneva."

This great roll call, says the "Tribuna," serves a double purpose: it gives the Italian nation order and discipline, distinguishing it from the inferior states and also makes it the instrumental power of real international justice.

The general mobilisation, says the paper will prove to the world that unity of spirit and power exists which will be put to the test in Africa, and simultaneously confirm the rejuvenating and indisputable value of the Fascist revolution.

COMPLETE DEADLOCK

Geneva, Sept. 10.

Complete deadlock has resulted from the unyielding attitude of Baron Aloisi, spokesman for the Italian Government. The League's special Committee of Five has decided not to continue its work of exploration, but will await the report of its sub-committee on the Italian memorandum with respect to alleged violations of treaties and pledges and frontiers by the Ethiopian people.

Unless something unexpected happens, the Committee will meet again on Thursday and draw up a report for the Council, with the suggestions of the Committee members, which looks suspiciously like "recommendations" provided under Article XV. of the League Covenant.

By this article, which deals with disputes between members of the League, the Council is empowered to judge between them and to bind them to its unanimous will.

NEVER EXPLORED

The Committee of Five has never explored beyond the confines of the Paris proposals for compromise, which were flatly refused by Signor Benito Mussolini.

The Committee has never considered suggestions for military or political control of Ethiopia.

The talks between the five nations' representatives have revolved around the question of collective and economic assistance for the Ethiopian Government.

It is felt to-night that there is very little hope that any conciliation is possible.

GREAT IMPORTANCE

The greatest importance is attached to the recent conversations between Sir Samuel Hoare, the British Foreign Minister, M. Pierre Laval, the French Prime Minister, and Mr. Anthony Eden, the British Minister for League Affairs.

Nothing official has transpired with regard to the purpose of these talks, but French authoritative quarters state that Sir Samuel emphasised the value Great Britain placed upon collective security and the grave importance His Majesty's Government would attach to defeat of this principle at Geneva.

Reuter

COMPLETE DEADLOCK

Geneva, Sept. 10.

The situation has entered a complete deadlock. Senior Madariaga, the Spanish chairman of the Committee of Five, has reported to the Committee completely negative results of his talks with Baron Aloisi of Italy.

He was unable to get any suggestions or encouragement from that quarter.

The Italian attitude was absolutely stiff and unyielding.

The Committee has therefore decided that it is not worth while pursuing exploration and will now await the report of its sub-committee on the Italian memorandum regarding Ethiopia's unfitness for League membership, which it is hoped will be ready within thirty-six hours.

Reuter

FRENCH FEARS

Paris, Sept. 10.

France is nervous with regard to the effect of Sir Samuel Hoare's speech at Geneva to-morrow. It is reported from Geneva that M. Pierre Laval in the course of his talks with the British Foreign Minister, has urged moderation.

It is feared here that an uncompromising declaration by Sir Samuel might cause Italy to quiet the Geneva talks.

Reuter

CORDIAL SPIRIT

London, Sept. 10.

The Foreign Secretary, Sir Samuel Hoare, and the Minister for League Affairs, Mr. Anthony Eden, met Monsieur Laval again this evening in Geneva, to continue conversations which lasted for an hour and twenty minutes this morning. These discussions, which are regarded as manifesting the cordial spirit of co-operation and close community of ideas which exist between the British and French Governments, are assumed to be connected with the main problems before the League of Nations, and particularly the Italo-Ethiopian conflict, and to be directed towards harmonising the points of view of two delegations in regard to procedure in various eventualities.

The Committee of Five and their experts are still engaged in the study of the Italian and Ethiopian cases in order to be in a position to make a report to the Council on any settlement it may be found possible to recommend.

Neither party has yet been before the Committee. A variety of suggestions have been put forward for a basis of peaceful settlement and all these will be considered, but meanwhile the British delegation has denied reports that it proposed to the Committee of Five that an international mandate should be established over Ethiopia.

ASSEMBLY TO DECIDE

Geneva, Sept. 10.

The fate of the Disarmament Conference is being decided by the Bureau of the League Assembly, at present in session.

It contemplates the appointment of a committee, under the presidency of M. Maxim Litvinoff, the Russian Commissioner for Foreign Affairs, and chief Russian delegate to Geneva. This committee would examine the present state of the conference, and submit recommendations.

The Bureau has decided that it is unnecessary to appoint a further committee to deal with the report on the Disarmament Conference. But in order to give M. Litvinoff a place on the Bureau it was agreed to make him an additional vice-president.

Thus M. Litvinoff will be able to sit in the Bureau with the representatives of the other Great Powers.

Further Progress Made

London, Sept. 10.

The favourable impression created by unemployment figures for August, published yesterday, which recorded that the number of unemployed had decreased by 377,000 since the beginning of the year, is strengthened by this week's Exchange returns which show the total ordinary revenue, excluding self-balancing items, amounts to £25,598,164 compared with £24,535,806 at a corresponding date last year.

Income tax receipts are £49,398,000 against £48,707,000 last year, and the total inland revenue £102,786,000 compared with £101,427,000, while the total revenue from customs and excise is £123,130,000 against £124,814,000 for the same period of the last financial year.

Another sign of trade improvement is in the Post Office receipts under the heading of self-balancing revenue, which are £25,150,000, two million pounds more than in the previous year. Total ordinary expenditure, exclusive of self-balancing items is £313,118,000 against £297,745,041 at a corresponding date of 1934.

Geneva, Sept. 11.

The Soviet Union which failed to obtain sufficient votes for the seat of presidency of the League of Nations plenary session has now been invited by the members to take part in their labours. Litvinoff representing the Soviet Union, only obtained 29 votes, so that Belgium and Mexico were elected to the presidency but not the Soviet Union.

This caused great annoyance to the Soviet delegation and Litvinoff complained to the President of the Assembly, M. Benes who persuaded the other members of the presidium that a great power like Russia could not be left outside and ought to be invited to partake.

LAWN BOWLS

Alves Bows To Bradbury

Supporters of H. A. Alves, the Reclon skip, were doomed to disappointment when he lost to B. W. Bradbury the Craikengower skip in the semi-final of the Open Lawn Bowls Championship by 22 shots to 12 on the C.S.C.C. green yesterday.

The standard of bowls put up by the players was good without being brilliant. Bradbury was the more consistent of the two. Time and again each player allowed the other scope in which to put the finishing touches with the last wood and in this respect Bradbury was the more guilty of the two. It must be conceded in Bradbury's favour, however, that he was more resourceful than Alves and often had the younger player guessing with some tricky woods.

The game started with Bradbury claiming the first shot. Alves retaliated in the next with a single and for the next four heads Bradbury claimed two singles, a two and a three to put the score 8 shots to one in his favour.

ALVES TRIES HARD

Up to the 15th head Alves was not playing his usual game and allowed Bradbury to draw away from him gradually. Alves scored singles on the 7th and 15th heads and two's on the 10th and 12th heads. At this stage Bradbury was still up by 13 shots to 7. From then onwards Alves made efforts to overcome the deficit and at one stage was only down by three shots. But the wizardry of Bradbury came back and he again forged away from the younger player. Alves then scored singles on the 16th, 19th and 21st heads with a two on the 17th head. Bradbury was bowling well at this stage and scored two's on the 18th and 24th heads, singles on the 20th and 22nd heads and a three on the 23rd head.

BRADBURY BOWLS WELL

On the 6th head Bradbury was lying 1 and Alves with his last wood bumped the jack to give Bradbury 3 snots instead. Good play by Alves was evidenced on the 21st head. His opponent was practically lying three good shots. With his remaining wood Alves slowly came in for the first shot. From the next head onwards Bradbury was playing a brand of bowls which augurs well for his chances in the final. This is the second occasion in which the Craikengower skip has entered the semi final stage of the Open Singles Colony Championship and his first in the final. He will now meet the winner of the Duncan-Mitchell match which is to be played to-day.

Mr. H. Nish made a very efficient umpire.

LOCAL SOCCER

Police Win Over Army Team

In a friendly game of soccer played at the K.F.C. ground yesterday the Police Seniors beat the combined R.A.S.C. and R.A.O.C. team by 5 goals to 1.

In the first half both the teams had not fully settled down to the game and this, being the first game of the season it was excusable. Early in this half the Police missed a glorious chance when a good pass from Pile on the right wing was not accepted by Stephens. Soon afterwards Stephens missed another opportunity when he had only Cooper to beat.

Exchanges were somewhat even, the soldiers doing some good passing, but their forwards found the Police defence too good.

Cooper, the Army custodian, had a busy time, and was called upon to save two stiff tries from Stephens and Pile. MacHardy the Police goalie was also tested by Clarke, but he made a good save.

There was no score in the first half, but according to the run of play the Police had the better of the exchanges.

POLICE SCORE

From a good pass from Moss on the left wing, Stephens drove in a shot that beat Cooper all the way. Immediately afterwards Cooper saved a hot shot from Stephens.

The Police began to find their form, but the soldiers could not settle down. The second goal was the result of a shot that was deflected off one of the soldiers from Green.

Midway through this half Stephens scored the third goal with a good header. A good passing movement on the left wing gave Clarke the opportunity to reduce the lead to 3-1 with a good drive.

Soon after this Stephens increased the score for the Police, and towards the end Bone scored the fifth goal.

The teams were as follows:—R.A.S.C. and R.A.O.C.—Cooper, McQueen, Gooch, Fuller, Worsfield, Clayford, Pionce, Bodin, Clarke, Duffield, Vaughan. Police:—MacHardy, Pile, Blackburn, Brooks, Gough, Manning, Tom Pile, Bone, Stephens, Green, Moss.

C.C.C. TENNIS

In the final of the C.C.C. Doubles Tennis Championship played yesterday on the Club's ground, Y. Hachima and J. W. Leonard beat A. V. Gosano and R. Choa by three sets to one, the scores being 4-6, 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Gosano and Choa started very promisingly by annexing the first set, but it was only a flimsy in the pan for in the following sets Hachima and Leonard played a brand of tennis that practically swept the other pair off their feet. They won the next three sets with the loss of but five games. Leonard was well and Hachima gave him all the support he needed.

Test For Shanghai Interporters

Shanghai, Sept. 7.

The steadily growing interest of Chinese sportsmen has resulted in a suggestion by them to the Shanghai Amateur Swimming Association that a gala be held in which the selected Shanghai Interport team should meet a Chinese team. This has received the whole-hearted support of the S.A.S.A. and the gala will take place at the Foreign Y.M.C.A. on Thursday, September 12, the gate receipts from which will go towards financing the visit of the local swimming representatives.

Regarding the interport team, one alteration in the membership has been made, W. Ward taking the place of S. Starkovsky. The swimmers will leave for Hong Kong in the s.s. President Cleveland, sailing at 1.30 a.m. on September 14, and will be under the control of John Huxley and Hans Park who will act as managers.

Kan Yee-kit will probably travel with the interport team as a reserve, which action has been merited on the splendid showing of this young Chinese in recent contests, particularly in breast-stroke events.

A factor which will contribute considerably to the encouragement of swimming amongst Chinese is the new pool situated at the Civic Centre which will be officially opened by Mayor Wu to-morrow at 2.30 p.m.

When the match was continued to-day Budge won the third set at 7-5, but he was unable to prevent his opponent from running out winner by annexing the fourth set at 6-3. The final scores were 6-4, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

Grant now meets Sidney Wood in the semi-final. In the other semi-final Fred Perry, holder meets Wilmer Allison.

CLAIM BY SHIP MASTER

Wrongful Dismissal Alleged

Before the Pusan Judge, Mr. Justice R. E. Lindsell at the Supreme Court, the action brought by Captain A. Brown, master mariner, claiming $1,000 from the Yuen On Steamship Company for alleged wrongful dismissal was continued yesterday morning.

Mr. M. A. da Silva appeared for the plaintiff, while the defendant company was represented by Mr. F. C. Nigal.

The plaintiff's claim was based on the ground that he had been wrongfully dismissed, while the defendant company contended that the dismissal was justified as plaintiff had failed to carry out his duties as master of the s.s. Kwong Tung.

Capt. E. Rule, at present master of the s.s. Kwong Tung and formerly chief officer to the plaintiff, who had given his evidence in chief at the previous hearing, on being cross-examined by Mr. Silva, admitted that he gave evidence because he was more or less compelled to do so. He and plaintiff had been ship-mates, and he was giving evidence with no ulterior motive at all.

WENT TO HOSPITAL

Before plaintiff was dismissed, the company made enquiries as to his conduct, and witness admitted having reported to them that plaintiff had been drinking. In April last year, plaintiff went to hospital for over-drinking. Witness heard this from Capt. Walker, Chau Cheuk-fat, the Chairman of the Board of Directors of the defendant company, was then called. He stated that on January 2, this year he saw Capt. Walker and told him to ask Capt. Brown to come and see him the following day. Witness understood that plaintiff had been drinking and neglecting his duties. He remembered an occasion when the Company paid for the treatment of Capt. Brown's eyes.

Cross-examined by Mr. Silva, witness denied that he had given Capt. Brown $69 for the settlement of other medical fees.

NOTHING WRONG

Capt. H. W. Walker testified that he had known plaintiff for about 30 years, but not intimately. On one occasion, some time in October, 1933, witness took Capt. Brown, who was then serving on the s.s. Kwong Sai, to the War Memorial Hospital, as he was suffering from the effects of liquor.

In April, 1934, as a result of instructions from the defendant company, witness again took Capt. Brown to hospital, for the same complaint. At that time he did not notice anything wrong with Capt. Brown's eyes.

On January 2, 1935, witness went on board the s.s. Kwong Tung for the purpose of wishing his former colleagues the compliments of the season. He found Capt. Brown and a friend, Capt. Brown appeared to be jolly, but told witness that he was going to leave the ship and to live in a bungalow made with four bamboos and a mat. In his opinion, Capt. Brown was not speaking normally.

COMPRADORE'S TALE

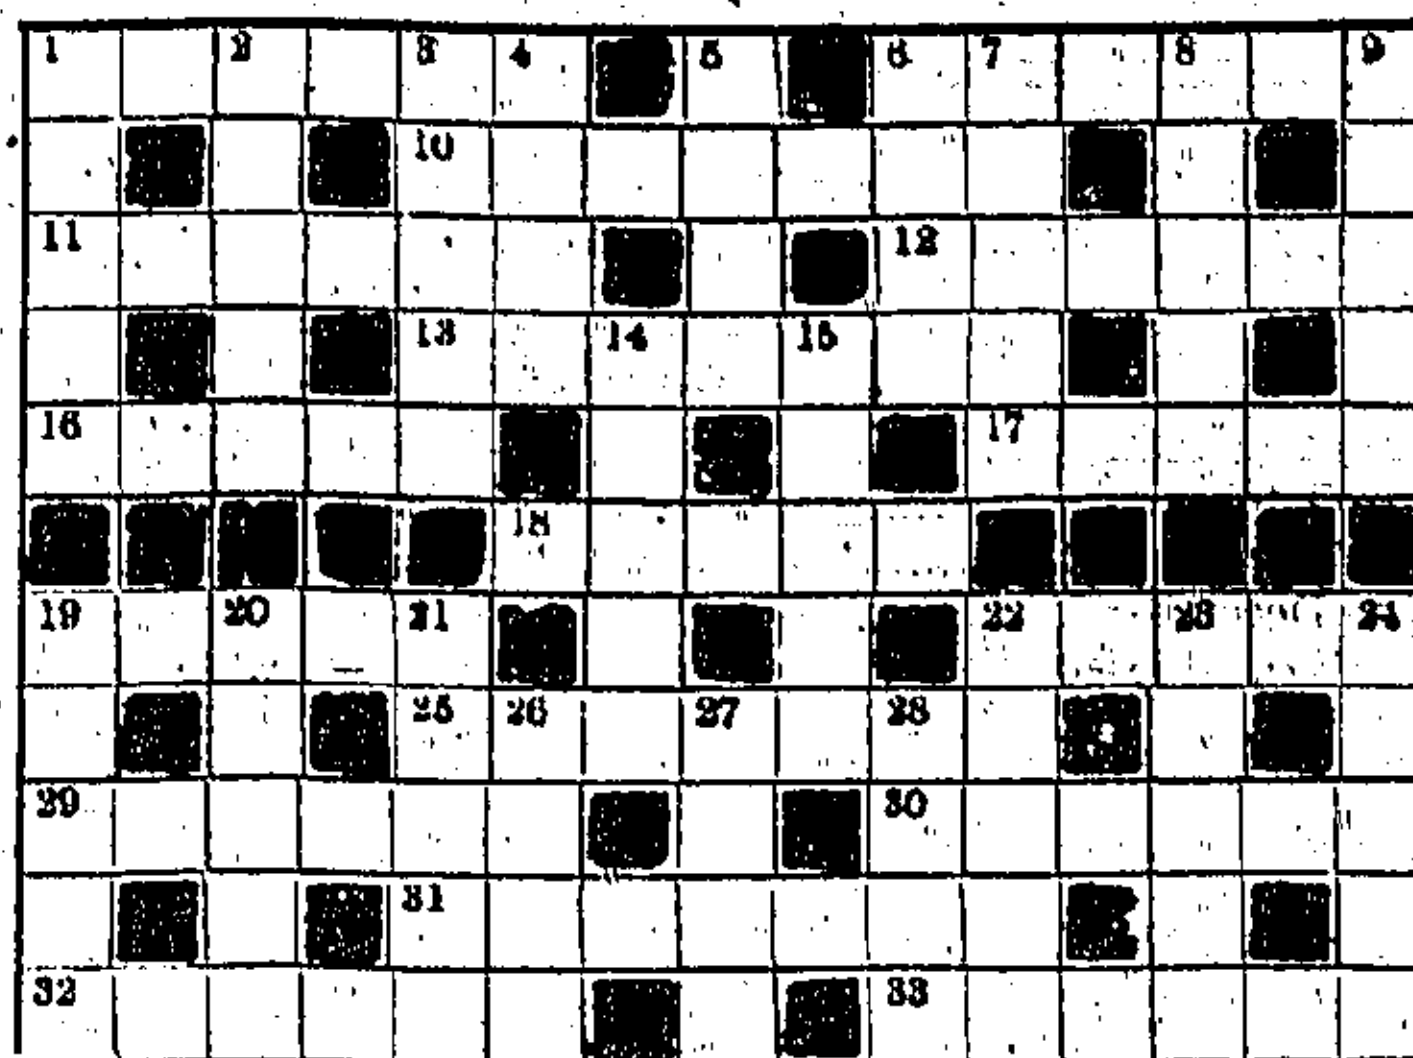

Fung Tang, described as an assistant compradore of the s.s. Kwong Tung, stated that on Saturday December 29, 1934 witness had a conversation with the plaintiff. This was at the time when the boat was about to arrive in Canton. The reason why witness had to talk to the plaintiff was that the steamer arrived at Canton late and he (witness) requested plaintiff to write to the Agents there. There plaintiff, however, told witness to do it himself. The request to write the letter was made through the Chief Engineer who acted as interpreter.

When witness spoke to the plaintiff he smelt of liquor and plaintiff spoke in a confused manner. On plaintiff's refusing to write the letter witness went to the agent and from there he got in touch with the office in Hong Kong by long distance telephone. On the ship returning to Hong Kong witness made a complaint regarding the incident.

Cross examined by Mr. Silva witness admitted having spoken to Capt. Brown direct on previous occasions on common matters but on this occasion he had to use an interpreter.

Mr. Silva: What was the nature of the letter you asked Capt. Brown to write?—I asked Capt. Brown to write a report to the Agents regarding the late arrival of the boat and at the same time to make a report to the Customs.

Only on these two things?—Yes.

NO OTHER REPORT

Witness further stated on being questioned that he had made no other report against Capt. Brown except on this occasion. He did not say anything about Capt. Brown being drunk except that he smelt strongly of liquor.

The defence having closed its case Mr. Silva addressed the Bench at length. He stated that the defence did not in any way whatsoever justify their dismissal as set out by the precedents of previous cases. At the opening Mr. Nigal had stated three grounds on which the defence based their dismissal. First there was the question of wilful neglect, this being disobedience to the regulation to navigate the steamer to the limit of Hong Kong harbour and that he failed to report the late arrival of the steamer to the office.

Mr. Silva submitted that there was no express regulations to have been infringed and there was no question of an express order being refused. On the question of neglect of duty the defence did not show that the neglect was habitual but only of one or two isolated cases which did not in the least justify instant dismissal. The evidence of the manager was that the plaintiff had been with the company for 10 years and throughout his employment had not met with an accident except on this occasion.

WILFUL NEGLECT

Mr. Silva then quoted laws on the question of wilful neglect. Then the question of excessive drinking which the defence alleged occurred between December 23, 1934 to February 2, 1935 had not been proved. If the plaintiff had been drunk all this time then he might have injured the company's interest but as it was an isolated case, again this failed to justify the dismissal. Mr. Silva submitted that there was no justification for the Company to summarily dismiss his client.

His Lordship, however, ruled that Mr. Silva had a case to answer and the case was then adjourned until to-morrow afternoon.

I am very fastidious about my Talcum Powder

After the bath following vigorous exercise we all need a powder that is absolutely smooth and silky. That's why I use Cuticura Talcum. It is the most exquisitely fine powder I've ever used. And the perfume is a wonderful blend—both fragrant and wholesome—it smells so clean and sweet.

The reason why Cuticura Talcum is used by women who are extra particular about their toilet powder is that it has a fineness and purity which is unexcelled.

Cuticura is scientifically prepared by a special process—it has the same guaranteed quality of excellence which has made Cuticura Soap famous all over the world. If the skin is overheated and chafed, Cuticura Talcum soothes it at once. Its cool 'satin' softness is like a balm. Use it after bathing—before dancing or strenuous exercise. It absorbs perspiration—you stay sweet, dainty and fresh for hours.

Sold by all Chemists and Stores.

BERLIN BOURSE

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Sept. 10.
The sharemarket was exceedingly quiet yesterday, bank orders being almost non-existing, this being partly attributed to the readiness with which investors are taking up the Reichs treasury bonds now no issue. Enquiries made at the leading banks resulted in the information that 2/3 and 3/4 of the total amount offered has already been applied for.

Fixed interest securities in the market were again dull, gold mortgage bonds being somewhat weaker. Call money was at 3 to 3 3/8. Young loan was 1/8 lower to 102. Reichsbanks declined 1/2 to 180 1/4. Dye Trusts advanced 1/2 to 155 1/4. Salzedtuth Potash 1 1/4 lower to 186. German Steel Trusts were down 3/8 to 82 5/8. German Mineral Oils unchanged at 109 3/4. Siemenshalske dropped 1 1/2 to 175 1/4, and Bemberg Rayon rose 1/4 to 114 3/4.

GERMAN LABOUR MARKET

(Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Sept. 10.
Contrary to the usual seasonal development of the labour market in September, when as a rule unemployment begins to increase, the official figures just published show that the jobless in Germany has actually decreased by about 48,000 reaching on August 31, a low record of 1,708,000 which is almost 1.3 million less than the peak figure of the current year.

The noteworthy fact is that the decrease of unemployment chiefly occurred in large cities.
